CHICAGO BANKS IN HUGE MERGERS

TWO INSTITUTIONS FORMED WHEN HUGE ASSETS ARE JOINED

Three Large Banks Remain; Foreman Bank Absorbed

CHICAGO, June 8.—Two big Loop bank mergers were completed early today after conferences which started at noon Saturday.

The First National Bank of Chicago made the only bid for the deposits of the Foreman-State National Bank and the Foreman State Trust and Savings Bank, amounting to nearly $200,000,000 and Arthur Reynolds, chairman of the board of the Continental Illinois Bank, announced that the First National was taking over the business immediately.

An hour later, consolidation of the Central Trust Co. of Illinois with the National Bank of the Republic was announced. These two banks have combined deposits of about $290,000,000 and now will be known as the Central Republic Bank and Trust Co.

The consolidations give the city three large banks, the first National with resources of $883,000,000, the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust Co., with resources of $1,122,942,654 said to be the largest bank in the world under one roof and the Central Trust National Bank of the Republic with resources of $350,000,000. Last night's amalgamations caused a shifting of approximately $1,250,000,000.

An indemnity fund of $12,550,000, part subscribed by stockholders and directors and $10,000,000 advanced by members of the Chicago Clearing House Association accompanied the transfer of the Foreman Bank deposits to the First National organization, guaranteeing it against loss in liquidation.

Experts put to work Saturday at noon worked frantically until late last night analyzing the positions of the banks.

While reports of various groupings spread about the loop financial sector, leaders of Chicago finance gathered for consultation. Among them was Charles G. Dawes, ambassador to England, who is honorary chairman of the Central Trust Company and who founded the bank in 1902. Others were: George M. Reynolds, chairman of the Continental Illinois executive committee and dean of Chicago bankers; James B. McDougal, governor and Eugene M. Stevens, chairman of the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank; Melvin A. Traylor, president of First National, and State Auditor Oscar Nelson.

FACULTY ASKS MILLER RETURN

Demands Trustees To Rescind Action

COLUMBUS, O., June 8.—Reinstatement of Dr. Herbert A. Miller, ousted sociology professor, was demanded by 172 Ohio State University faculty members in a petition which was presented last night to President George W. Rightmire, it became known today.

The petition, calling upon the board of trustees to rescind its action of May 22 in discharging Dr. Miller, was personally presented to the president in his home on the campus last night by Dean Walter J. Shephard of the college of arts and sciences.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 8.—Petitions signed by forty members of the Yale University faculty were today sent to the Ohio State University trustees protesting against the dismissal of Professor Herbert A. Miller, one of the leaders in the recent agitation to abolish compulsory military training at the Ohio institution.

The Yale petitions are signed by the deans of the law school, the graduate school and the divinity school and leading faculty members of the three schools. The list also includes the names of Professor Irving Fisher, noted economist, Harold J. Laski, James Harvey Rogers and Edwin M. Boregard.

FIVE MILLION DOLLAR BLAZE HITS NORFOLK

Twenty-Four Hurt; Seven Blocks And Wharf Burned

NORFOLK, Va., June 8.—With more than twenty persons injured and damage estimated as high as $5,000,000, a fierce fire which raged in Norfolk's business district was put under control early today.

Seven blocks were destroyed before rain aided firemen of Norfolk and half a dozen neighboring cities in stopping the advance of the flames. Marines and sailors from Hampton Roads also helped combat the fire.

Twenty-four workmen were removed to hospitals, suffering from burns and the effects of smoke.

The fire started when an explosion rocked an oil barge at the wharf near the business section. The flames, fanned by a wind from the sea, spread rapidly to adjoining docks and then engulfed the business district. The residential sections were in danger when the fire was finally conquered.

The Buxton line steamer David was burned, but other boats were moved to safety.

The Victoria Hotel was completely destroyed. Many guests lost all their belongings.

Other buildings destroyed were those occupied by the American Peanut Corporation, National bag and Paper Company, Rosedale Dairy, Crockin-Levy store, Swift and Company, and City Hay and Grain Company.

BILL CUTTING TASK STILL CONTINUES

COLUMBUS, O., June 8.—The arduous task of cutting millions of dollars from the big biennial appropriation bill was resumed today by the senate and house finance committees.

Effort is being made by both committees to come as close as possible to balancing the state's budget by trimming the $12,000,000 appropriation measure so that the state's operating expenses during the two-year period ending Jan. 1, 1923, will not exceed the revenues during the biennium.

COAL MINERS STRIKE
STUEBENVILLE, O., June 8.—Organized as the "National Miners' Union," more than 200 employees of the Hanna Coal Co. at Pineford, O., near here, planned to strike today.

Germany Happy Over Result Of Meeting On Reparations

LONDON, June 8.—While a cloak of diplomatic secrecy descended today upon the actual conversations between British and German ministers at Chequers, the eyes of all Europe were focused on the proposed visit of Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon.

Secretary Mellon and Secretary Stimson expect to sail for Europe late this month. Secretary Stimson announced that he would confer with European leaders while abroad. Although they definitely announced that their trip would be made unofficially, it was evident here that they will probably be called upon to discuss reparations, the primary topic of discussion at Chequers.

All of the participants in the two-day conference at the summer home of Premier Ramsay MacDonald at which Chancellor Heinrich Brüning and Foreign Minister Dr. Julius Curtius placed before the British leaders Germany's need for economic assistance pledged themselves to silence. The Germans cancelled all promised interviews and allowed yesterday's joint communiqué to stand except a brief statement last night.

One member of the German delegation, said that they were well pleased with the results of their trip to England.

"The next developments depend upon the reception of the Chequers results in Germany and other countries. That something will happen by fall is obvious," he said.

An article in the London Express today was seen as the opening of a barrage to force the United States to cancel the war debts. The article said:

"The first move toward the settlement of the problems should come from America. It is fundamentally wrong that Great Britain should pay a hundred cents on the dollar for war supplies that were intended for a common purpose.

"The war supplies were purchased at a price which put millions of pounds profit in the coffers of United States steel companies."

SIX KILLED IN AUTO SMASH-UP

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., June 8.—Six persons were dead today as a result of a crash between a light coupe and a heavy truck on a bridge near here.

Five died instantly and a sixth died in a hospital without regaining consciousness.

Witnesses said the coupe traveling at a high rate of speed passed the truck in the center of the bridge and then apparently applied brakes. The truck crashed into it and knocked it around and back to the other end of the concrete structure and then smashed into the bridge itself.

DANGEROUS GUNMAN BELIEVED INSANE

CHICAGO, June 18.—Frank McErlane, labelled Chicago's "cruellest gangster" and credited with inventing the "ride" today was faced with incarceration in an insane asylum.

He was found Friday in the rain blazing away with two shotguns and a pistol at imaginary enemies and upon arraignment today was to be sent to the Psychopathic Hospital for observation.

For twenty years, McErlane has been on the police records as a thief, bootlegger and killer. He was once head of a powerful south side beer gang but his power has waned.

REVEAL BETROTHAL

NEW YORK, June 8.—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Lamont today announced the engagement of their daughter, Eleanor, to Charles C. Cunningham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Cunningham of Milton, Mass. Cunningham is a Harvard junior. No date for the wedding has been set.

GANGDOM'S FOE

Scarface Al Capone is the ninth major gangster indicted through the efforts of United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, above. He worked unsuccessfully for three years, during which time many lesser gangsters were captured, before the indictment of Capone on an income tax fraud charge was possible. At times fifty government agents were working on the gangster cases.

CRITICS INSTEAD OF DOERS ATTACKED BY RELIGIOUS LEADER

Dean Matthews Gives Baccalaureate At Wilberforce U.

That the world is in need of persons who will do things instead of standing idly by denouncing the work of others, was the message of Dean Shaler Matthews of the School of Religion of the University of Chicago to the ninety-eight members of the Wilberforce University graduating class in his baccalaureate sermon here Sunday morning.

Taking his text: "Be ye steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the works of the Lord," from Paul's letter to the Corinthians, Dean Matthews said: "We are today, as of years ago, faced with a world in which there are two dominant attitudes of mind, one which says that there is nothing worth while and the other which says that labor is not in vain if done in the spirit of Jesus Christ."

The speaker continued, saying that the world today is full of pessimistic persons whose principal pleasure seems to come in criticizing. "What we need," he declared, "is a social psychiatric treatment. We have had neuroses of optimism and now we are afflicted with a neurosis of pessimism. To be a real pessimist, however, one must be prosperous, for then one is in danger of losing some possession. The person who has nothing has everything to hope for and nothing to lose. When I hear these people talking about pessimism I feel like telling them to take a good dose of the book of Ecclesiastes, for there we have one of the first expressions of the pessimistic attitudes of mind."

These same persons, who shout pessimism, the speaker pointed out, end up by urging all mankind to recognize each other as brothers—comrades in doom. What we have, he explained, is more like a comradeship in gloom rather than in doom.

Referring to present day radicals, Dr. Matthews said: "We need a certain quota of radicals to irritate."

GIRL PLEADS TO BE ALLOWED TO DIE

CLEVELAND, June 8.—Pleading with hospital attaches to "let me die," a pretty girl about 25 years of age, who was found unconscious in a west side hotel room assigned to "Helen Nelson, Buffalo," regained consciousness in City Hospital here today.

"Am I going to die?" was the girl's first question when she became conscious after physicians had worked unceasingly over her since she was taken to the hospital Saturday.

VIOLENT DEATHS IN STATE CLAIM HEAVY TOLL SURVEY SHOWS

Three Members Of One Family Killed At Rail Crossing

By International News Service
A Circleville woman toppled off a cliff to her death at a picnic, a prominent Hamilton youth was drowned in the great Miami River, a Portsmouth boy was shot by a revolver in the hands of a chum, and five persons were killed in automobile collisions, a check-up of week-end accidents showed today.

The drowning at Columbus late Saturday of two Negro youths while hunting bait, along with various other accidents, boosted the total of week-end fatalities from unusual causes to eleven, International News Service learned.

Miss Louise Smith, 26, fell twenty feet to her death while attending a picnic with a party of friends near Chillicothe.

Peter Kremer, 21, one of a prominent family of florists, drowned while swimming at a summer camp at Fairplay, O., near Hamilton. His cousin, Joseph Kremer, also of Hamilton, almost lost his own life in an attempt to rescue him.

Police called the shooting at Portsmouth of Clyde Kennedy, 18, "accidental," following an investigation. James Clay Setters, 15, jokingly pointed his father's gun at Kennedy and accidentally pulled the trigger.

Glenn Luther Pickett, seven years old, slipped from the bank of Alum Creek at Columbus while catching minnows and was drowned. His companion, John Dunlap, 12, drowned when he jumped in after him.

Three members of one family were killed at Yoder, near Lima,

MAID IS FOUND SLAIN BY FILE

CHICAGO, June 8.—Beaten and stabbed to death, the body of Miss Rose Kulser, 20, a housemaid, was found today in a fresh pool of blood in the basement of an exclusive apartment building where she was employed.

A sharp steel file had been driven into her heart and was still embedded in her body when it was discovered by another maid, May Connolly, whose screams aroused tenants and caused notification of the police.

HOOVER SATISFIED BY NAVY PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Apparently well satisfied with his navy economy program, as worked out in conferences with naval chiefs over the week-end, President Hoover returned to the White House from his Rapidan fishing camp this morning.

Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson, who is the administration's chief adviser in disarmament matters, accompanied the President on the return trip.

PILOTS AUTOGIRO ACROSS COUNTRY

LOS ANGELES, June 8.—Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam had added another new record to her list today—the first woman to pilot an autogiro across the continent.

She arrived yesterday after enduring a little uneasiness by being two hours overdue in a fog which caused a commercial line to cancel its flights.

VISITS COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, O., June 8.—Evangeline Booth, commander of the Salvation Army in the United States, was to visit Columbus today on her 2000-mile automobile tour of the army's posts. Arrangements were made here for Commander Booth to address a public service from the steps of the state house.

SLAYER ADMITS DELLY MURDER AFTER ARREST

Filipino Reconstructs Death Of Brooklyn Specialist

NEW YORK, June 8.—Because his girl needed some money, Gavanne Demiar, undersized Filipino, killed Dr. George E. Deely, noted Brooklyn specialist and philanthropist, in his bachelor apartment, according to police.

Demiar, also known as George Damico, today confessed the vicious knife murder of his former employer, police said.

Demiar was arrested after he was trailed through a week-end visit to Philadelphia when he returned to New York.

"I went to his house to rob Dr. Deely," the Filipino allegedly confessed. "The girl with whom I was living needed money and I knew the doctor always kept some in the house."

Dr. Deely was found slashed to death, his pajama-clad body sprawled on the Oriental rug of his luxurious apartment in the fashionable center of Brooklyn. His head had been bludgeoned. Radio wire was wrapped around his body as if an attempt had been made to strangle him.

Demiar said that he had moved from furnished room to furnished room in an effort to escape the trail of the law.

He was overtaken by detectives in Philadelphia. He was not placed under arrest until the party reached New York in order to avoid extradition complications.

The Filipino was taken to the doctor's apartment to reenact the crime.

FIRES BLAMED ON LIGHTNING BOLTS

CINCINNATI, O., June 8.—Fires started by lightning which struck a church and a garage caused damages of more than $70,000, it was estimated today.

The Fairmount Presbyterian Church was set ablaze during an electrical storm when lightning struck the structure's steeple.

Lightning also was responsible for the firing of a garage in the industrial section of Mariemont, a suburb. The building and fourteen trucks were destroyed.

FOUR WOUNDED BY SHOTS FROM PASSING AUTO

Policeman And Three Prisoners Hurt; Hoodlums Flee

DAYTON, O., June 8.—A policeman and three prisoners were wounded here today when four men driving slowly by the Ford St. police station opened fire and riddled the building with shotgun pellets. The hoodlums then "stepped on the gas" and sped away.

The prisoners wounded by the scattered shot were Vincent Nagy, 19; George Clark, 40, of Slough City, Ia., and Alfred Berry, 28 Negro.

Patrolman George Reese who was acting as turkey at the jail, was nipped by a few of the shotgun pellets and was cut by flying glass as it cracked under the gunfire and showered over the jail office.

Police believe the motive of the four hoodlums was either to effect a jailbreak or "to get" one of the prisoners in order to silence him from divulging any underworld information.

Only a few jail attaches were present at the time the hoodlums raided the jail. They summoned additional police squads and gave chase, but by the time a posse was organized the hoodlum quartet had succeeded in making good an escape.

A detective who was stationed at the railroad yards nearby the police station saw the hoodlum automobile driving past. He reported that it bore Indiana license plates.

STRIKE RIOTS FLARE; BOMBS DISPERSE MOB

State Troopers In Pennsylvania Help Subdue Strikers

PITTSBURGH, June 8.—Latent bitterness of the 1927 bituminous coal strike flared into open violence in Pennsylvania's impoverished soft coal field today in a welter of rioting, broken heads, threats and vandalism.

Stubborn riots raged along a seventy-mile front at the break of dawn with strikers and state troopers seeking ascendancy. Reports filtering in from the bituminous coal fields indicated forty-five mounted and foot policemen had succeeded in quelling disturbances in which 2,000 miners participated.

A score of miners and a state trooper were clubbed during a riot near the Midland No. 3 mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company at Westland. Fifteen troopers were forced to fling tear gas bombs into the ranks of 700 marching strikers to disperse the miners.

Tear gas bombs and riot clubs were used freely when a ragged file of miners, armed with non-descript weapons—clubs, rocks and anything else handy—fought coal and iron police who had barricaded themselves behind a motor truck near Ellsworth.

The rioters were reported to have charged the police, numbering fifteen officers, four times each time retreating in disorder before the acrid fumes of the tear gas.

DAMAGE CAUSED AS STORMS SWEEP OHIO

COLUMBUS, O., June 8.—Considerable damage was reported today from violent rain, wind and lightning storms which swept the state over the week-end.

Trees were broken off and fields of wheat and other crops were flattened in several sections. Hail storms caused wide damage in parts of northern Ohio.

Fire departments were kept busy as lightning struck and fired many residences and structures. Two lightning-started fires in Cincinnati caused $70,000 damages.

Air traffic was seriously hampered by terrific 70-mile an hour winds in some sections.

Partly cloudy and warmer weather was forecast for today with clearing skies tomorrow.

WILBERFORCE U. BUDGET CUT

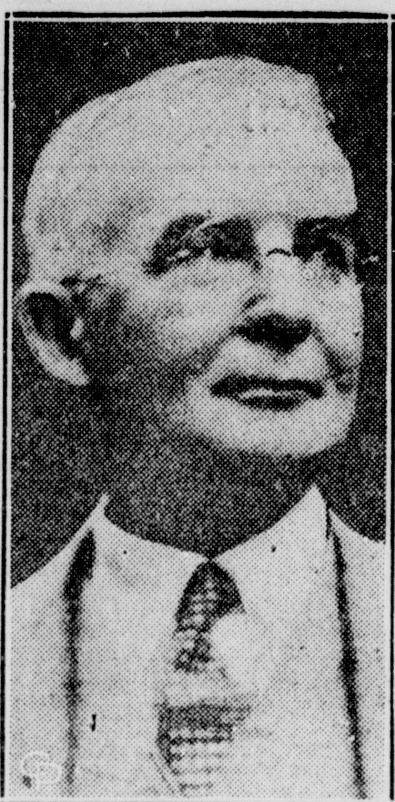

COLUMBUS, O., June 8.—Carrying out its plan to slash expenditures at state-supported colleges and universities, the Ohio house finance committee this afternoon struck $172,000 from the budget requests of Wilberforce University for the next two years.

The committee decided to eliminate entirely the proposed expenditure of $125,000 for the erection of an administration building at Wilberforce.

An appropriation of $45,000 for capital equipment was abolished and a proposed $3,000 expenditure for sidewalks was reduced to $1,000.

Reductions of similar proportions were ordered at Bowling Green and Kent State Colleges at today's hearing. Similar reductions are expected at Ohio State, Ohio and Miami Universities later during the week.

BARRED BY U. S.

In commenting on the refusal of the supreme court to permit his admission as a United States citizen because he refuses to make an unqualified promise to bear arms in event of war, Dr. Douglas Clyde Macintosh, Yale divinity professor, declares his position is "unaltered." He insisted before the court that he had the right to decide if war was morally justified.

TAN OUT OF STYLE

NEW YORK, June 8.—Because sun tan is no longer a vogue, 200,000 working days' loss due to illness from sunburn will be saved for industry, Dr. Charles F. Pabst said today. He estimated economic loss from sunburn at more than $1,400,000 a year in New York.

Dr. Pabst said in 1930 sunstroke caused more deaths in New York than those due to elevated car, subway, steam car and electric surface car accidents. He predicted a decided falling off this summer from last year's record of ninety sunstroke deaths.

PAST PRESIDENT OF LEGION AUXILIARY WILL APPEAR HERE

Appearance of Adalyn Wright Macaulay, past president of the national American Legion auxiliary and past and honorary president of the Fidae Auxiliary, the only American woman who has ever headed this international allied organization, is expected to be one of the high spots on the 1931 program of the Redpath Chautauqua in this city July 1-7.

Her visit to Xenia will be of especial interest to all American Legion and auxiliary members in this locality, the Chautauqua management feels.

Of perhaps equal interest will be the address of C. Ray Hansen, Chicago attorney, who will discuss "Government in Gangland," having derived his knowledge from personal experiences as a foe and victim of Chicago gangsters.

On the fifth afternoon a lecture by Charles H. Plattenburg, a life-long student of economical problems, on the subject, "The Old Town in a New World," will be delivered.

The Metropolitan Singers, a Radio City organization, and the Philharmonic Ensemble, will be the two outstanding musical organizations of the week. Artists' Day will bring Anita Ball and her company, popular in the novelty field.

Chautauqua patrons who annually look forward to a high standard in the Redpath play productions, apparently will not be disappointed. Four plays, one a musical offering, will be presented, "Broken Dishes," which recently closed a successful run at the Ritz Theater in New York City, will be the offering on the first night. "Her Husband's Wife," a three-act comedy, will be the attraction on the third night. "Grumpy," with Joseph Gifford in the title role, is the third dramatic production.

Junior Town will again be a Chautauqua feature, and attractions of particular interest to the boys and girls will include Lura Forbes, Reno the magician, and a big pageant during the week.

SHERIFF INJURED COLUMBUS, O., June 8.—Sheriff Harry T. Paul of Franklin County, was severely injured at his home here today when he fell down a flight of stairs and fractured two vertebrae in the lumbar region and also a rib.

New Serial Replete With Adventure And Mystery

By Central Press

A strange secret sends a mysterious young man to the far corners of the earth with only a lovely and brilliant young girl as his bodyguard. Four men follow his every move and hatch scheme after scheme to kill him, but always the girl is there to foil the plot.

The mysterious young man is Roy T. Burney, a young American millionaire, and the girl is Ann Carmichael, daughter of an English scientist, hero and heroine of Louise Gerard's novel, "The Mysterious Young Man," which starts serially in The Gazette Wednesday.

But when a most capable young girl guards a man's life with her own and several times saves him from death is she not entitled to know the secret that rules the strange affairs of his life? Why should he implore her to love him and yet refuse her the secret of his devotion to a middle-aged countess?

Here is a story with an enthralling plot. Here is a magnificent romance linked with high-spirited adventure in far-away places. The tenderest love, the most loyal devotion—these are thwarted by black shadows of the past.

Louise Gerard has searched out a profound problem in the conflict between love and noble sacrifice. Her talent for showing hearts torn by jealousy and blind misfortune, day.

Ann, the Adorable Heroine and her ability to bring out the grandeur of an expiating death accomplish in this novel their finest effects in arousing readers to a tremendous experience.

"The Mysterious Young Man" takes rank with Miss Gerard's other successful novels, "A Son of the Sahara," "Bride of the Night," etc. The first installment appears for readers of The Gazette Wednesday.

COUPLE FACING CHARGES AFTER LIQUOR RAID LED BY SHERIFF

Arthur Soddors and his wife, Bella, living on the Dean farm on the Stringtown Road, five miles from Xenia, were jailed Monday awaiting hearings Tuesday morning in Probate Court, Mrs. Soddors on a charge of resisting an officer and her husband for possessing liquor.

The arrests followed a raid on the Soddors home Saturday night by Sheriff John Baughn and three deputies in which one raiding officer did not escape unscathed.

Authorities say that Soddors, found in possession of a quantity of home brew beer, attempted to destroy the evidence. He threw a jug out of a window and was about to dispose of a few pint bottles when Walton Spahr, chief deputy, sought to restrain him. Mrs. Soddors was reported to have rushed to the aid of her husband and struck the officer over the head with a skillet.

Meanwhile, Sheriff Baughn, finding the front door locked, found it necessary to force an entrance through the door. Soddors was arrested and about eight pints of beer were seized as evidence. Mrs. Soddors was taken into custody Monday.

Arraigned before Probate Judge S. C. Wright Monday morning, Soddors pleaded not guilty to possessing liquor and his wife entered a similar plea to resisting an officer. Their bonds were fixed at $500 each and both were ordered placed in jail until they could furnish bail. Soddors will have a hearing at 9 a. m. Tuesday and his wife at 10 o'clock.

En route to jail with the couple, Harry Soddors, Jamestown, a brother, who was said to have protested violently against the incarceration of the couple, his manner became so menacing the sheriff arrested him also and locked him up, pending a decision as to whether to place a charge against him.

Both Soddors and his wife are on parole from six-month sentences to the Dayton Workhouse. They pleaded guilty last April 15 to a charge of abandoning and neglecting their one and one-half year old son, Donald, were each fined $25 and costs and given suspended workhouse sentences by Judge Wright.

At that time court authorities permitted the parents to retain possession of their youngest son, but their 5-year-old boy and 4-year-old girl were placed in the custody of a relative in Xenia. Judge Wright ordered Monday that the custody of the infant son also be changed to the relatives here.

HOUSE DESTROYED BY FIRE SATURDAY

A two-story brick house, owned and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hunter, colored three and one-half miles west of Yellow Springs on the Enon Road, was destroyed by fire early Saturday afternoon. Interior of the house was destroyed and only the four brick walls were left standing.

It is thought the fire started from sparks from the stove. It was covered by Mr. Hunter about 1 p. m. and he was able to remove part of the household furnishings assisted by neighbors. The loss is partly covered by insurance. Mr. and Mrs. Hunter had resided in the house since 1905.

MRS. MARY HARNER, OCTOGENARIAN, IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Mrs. Mary Campbell Harner, 85, widow of Samuel Harner, died at her home in Old Town Sunday morning at 8:15 o'clock. She had been confined to her bed two years following injuries received when she was knocked down by an automobile, when she suffered fractures of both legs and minor injuries. Immediate cause of death was a stroke of paralysis suffered Thursday morning.

Mrs. Harner was born in Bath Twp. July 5, 1845, the daughter of Joseph and Drusilla Campbell. She had spent most of her life in Greene County with the exception of four years in Missouri. Her marriage to Mr. Harner took place March 14, 1865 and at the time of his death in 1926 they had been married sixty-one years. Mrs. Harner was formerly a member of the Reformed Church at Byron but transferred her membership to the M. E. Church, Old Town, when she moved to that village eight years ago.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Ada Swadener, Old Town. Besides her husband three sons preceded her in death and she was the last of her immediate family. Twenty grandchildren and sixteen great grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services will be held at the Old Town M. E. Church Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and burial will be made in Woodland Cemetery.

The recognition services of the Rev. M. M. D. Perdue, recently called to the pastorate of the Zion Baptist Church, opened Sunday morning. Some weeks ago the executive board of the Sunday school planned to have some way by which the parents and friends of the children could look in on that group at work so the idea matured in the form of a Sunday school breakfast. Invitations were given each member some days previous so Sunday morning at 9:30 nearly 200 adults, boys and girls were in Sunday school. The dining room and also the Sunday school rooms were beautiful with cut flowers. The superintendent and officers and teachers served the breakfast of bacon, eggs, hot rolls and coffee. During the hour the following program was held: remarks by Superintendent James H. Peters, subject, "The Object of this Meeting—To Build," Miss L. J. Payne, "Forty Years as a Worker," George I. Gaines, "Twenty-seven years as an Executive Head." Brief remarks were made by the Rev. Curtis Greenfield of Payne Theological Seminary who, during his school work here has given splendid services as teacher of a young men's class. Rev. M. M. D. Perdue talked on the necessity of having an adult department. Prof. Grover Harden, superintendent of adult department spoke on, "What I would like to Have," remarks by Mrs. Perdue. Instrumental solo by Miss Willa Holmes. Mr. J. H. Peters is serving his fifth year as superintendent of the school. At the close of the Sunday school breakfast 10:45 a. m. the salutatory sermon was preached by the pastor the Rev. M. M. D. Perdue immediately following the ordinance of baptism. At 3 p. m. the Recognition services were held as follows: music, choir; Recognition Prayer, Rev. J. H. Harris; music, "Go Preach My Gospel"; Recognition sermon, the Rev. P. H. Hill pastor of the St. John's Baptist Church, Dayton, text—1st Cor. 1:18, subject "Preaching of the Cross," song, "A Charge to Keep I Have"; charge to the church was given by the Rev. G. A. Martin, pastor of Midlrun Baptist Church; charge to the pastor, the Rev. F. L. Bray, pastor of Yellow Springs Church, "In All My Lord's Appointed Ways" was sung and the Rev. W. C. Allen, pastor of the Second Baptist Church, Washington C. H., presented the Bible which was accepted by Rev. Perdue. At 7:45 the sermon "An Ideal Congregation" was preached and the Lord's Supper administered. These services will continue closing Wednesday with a recognition banquet.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Behold, the Lord's hand is not shortened, that it cannot save; neither his ear heavy, that it cannot hear.—Isaiah, lix, 1.

CRYING BABIES

"An earthly power doth then show likest God's, when Mercy tempers justice." There is a novel kind of tempering in the court of Judge John P. Haas of Chicago. He conducts the Landlords and Tenants of the Municipal Court. One of the most frequent remarks from the bench is, "Another bottle of milk, please!"

The milk is for the babies. They come into the courtroom with their mothers, who in most cases have been evicted for not paying their rent. The mothers haven't paid their rent because they couldn't. For a closely connected reason, the babies are hungry. Wherefore they protest in the only way they know. The milk is provided partly to keep them from crying and interfering with court procedure, but also in plain human kindness. It would be quite possible, you know, to solve the courtroom problem by letting the babies cry out in the hall.

But this is an unpleasant topic. Let us drop it, in the hope that the court is also able to do something for the mothers.

SPANISH TITLES

The Spanish republic is becoming very republican. Its latest demonstration of civic equality is the stripping of titles from 2,600 nobles.

Thus 1,310 marquises, 900 counts, 145 viscounts, 148 barons and 97 dukes are reduced to the status of ordinary citizens. They must sign their simple family names to legal documents like the common herd. Special privileges and honors go by the board. They will be lucky if they keep their fortunes and fine homes.

It will go hard with them. Of all European nobilities, the Spanish is the proudest. The haughty dons will still be allowed, however, to use their titles in social life, as the French have continued doing since their revolution. That will help to soften the blow, especially among nobles traveling in America or seeking wives here. For matrimonial purposes, at least in this democratic land, an empty title is still good.

TO BE COMMENDED

Governors Ritchie and Pinchot, whatever one may think of some of their policies, are to be commended for breaking down the barrier erected to keep "controversial questions" off the agenda of the governors' conference at French Lick. They set an example in facing conditions that this country badly needs at this time.

A terror of constructive controversy seems suddenly to have seized our political parties, churches and economic leaders. They will walk around a dozen blocks to avoid meeting a "controversial question" face to face. What important issue is there before the country today that is not controversial to somebody?

A nation does not go ahead by stepping aside every time a controversial question crosses its path. Such questions are settled by men and women willing to step straight into them; and until they are settled they will continue to breed discontent and disunity of mind and purpose. Sidestepping is neither heroic nor constructive. The sooner we get that through the heads of our governors and legislatures and other responsible bodies the sooner shall we resume our interrupted march toward better things.

STUDY OF THE OTHER SEX

Fifty-eight seniors of Princeton college's graduating class, reported in a questionnaire the other day, that their favorite study was women. These student questionnaires should not be taken too seriously, but many students without question spend much of the time considering how they can conquer the opposite sex.

Also there are a host of girls who are "boy struck," and spend much of their time exchanging with each other their experiences with admirers or desired suitors.

All this sex attraction is an inevitable part of life. But it gets far too much of a grip on some. The business men are looking for helpers who understand about industry and trade, not for those who are noted for their sentimental conquests.

That balloon hop to the stratosphere by Prof. Auguste Piccard was a great sporting feat. As for the scientific results, we may have to wait until the professor signs a vaudeville contract.

It looks as if most of the people who were gambling in common stocks two years ago, and have anything left, have now turned to lotteries and horse races.

Somehow it's hard to sympathize with the song-writer who asks $35,000 from a sign company because a can of gasoline fell on his head and he is no longer able to write songs. Still, if the money will keep him from trying, let him have it.

Treat children like grown-ups and grown-ups like children, advises a physician. Meaning, be kind to grown-ups?

The spectacle of a 70-year-old ex-cabinet member avoiding jail only because he is seriously ill is not pleasant, but it may be helpful. Young men sometimes run foul of the law because of lack of experience—and have to take the consequences. A man of Albert B. Fall's age and experience knew what he was doing and the risk he was running when he betrayed the trust reposed in him.

When the government loans money to the California grape growers it presumably does not let the prohibition bureau's right hand know what the farm board's left hand is doing.

Other Editorial Thoughts

TALK YOURSELF OUT OF MONEY

Mark Twain went to church one Sunday and heard a missionary talk.

In his report of the address he lays convincing emphasis on the importance of knowing when to stop. "He was the most eloquent orator I ever listened to," writes Mark Twain. "He painted the benighted condition of the heathen so clearly that my deepest passion was aroused. I resolved to break a life-long habit and contribute a dollar to teach the gospel to my benighted brethren. As the speaker proceeded, I decided to make it five dollars, and then ten.

Finally I knew it to be my duty to give to the cause all the cash I had with me—twenty dollars. The pleading of the orator wrought upon me still further and I decided not only to give all the cash I had with me, but to borrow twenty dollars from my friend who sat at my side. That was the time to take up the collection.

However, the speaker proceeded and I finally dropped asleep. When the usher awoke me with the collection plate, I not only refused to contribute, but am ashamed to say that I actually stole fifteen cents!—Exchange.

UNSUNG ARTISTS

There are at least 1,000 window trimmers in New York, their territory covering probably 4,000 windows.

Every Wednesday and Saturday night this army goes to work in at least 50 department stores.

The window trimmer is a display manager, a decorator, a highly trained artist whose salary, as a usual thing, is commensurate with his ability. Nevertheless, he remains one of the obscure thousands, one of the least appreciated producers of effects.

Admiring a window display, who ever thinks of the man who conceived it? Some day store proprietors will permit these artists to "sign" their work, as do painters and sculptors.

CLOTHES AND THE WOMAN

Every woman is an actress.

It was an American girl who taught that to C. Bosseron Chambers, noted portrait painter and America's best known authority on religious paintings.

He has succeeded in getting one of two very good pictures of the girl he speaks of. She had excellent features and would have made a good model, except that she seemed totally lacking in imagination. She had no dramatic sense. When told to take the pose of a Spanish dancing girl there was no vivacity in her expression—merely a self-conscious smirk. The same thing happened at all Chambers' suggestions. He finally gave up trying to kindle the necessary spark and turned elsewhere for a model.

But the girl was really lovely and the artist hated to acknowledge defeat. He decided to try once again. "One morning I determined to paint a Madonna," he recalled. "The model, with her unexpressive eyes and languorous slouch, was all wrong. Fully expecting failure I handed her the virginial vestments to don, while I prepared my easel and brushes.

"When I looked up she was seated in the model chair, with a positively soulful peace in her formerly vivacious eyes. The change startled me and I asked her if, by any chance, she was of a religious turn of mind. She said no, but that she'd always had a secret desire to wear clothes like those just to see how she felt."

PROVEN

Generations of jurors having failed, American jurisprudence at last has discovered a method for ascertaining when a man is drunk.

A judge was confronted by three defendants accused of having been drunk the night before, policemen testifying that the men had been making night hideous by congregating on a street corner and attempting "close harmony."

"That doesn't prove the charge of intoxication," said His Honor. Then, turning to the defendants, he inquired:

"What were you singing, boys?" "Sweet Adeline," they replied. "Ten dollars each," he said. "Next case."

TRUTH IS STRANGER THAN FICTION!

PROHIBITION BECOMES SECONDARY ISSUE NOW IN NATIONAL CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON.—Prohibition is definitely settling itself down into a status secondary to economics as a 1932 national issue; there can be no doubt about it.

This does not mean that the wet-and-dry question will not figure importantly in next year's politics, but it will not be on top.

Times may improve between now and the two big party presidential conventions. Indeed, the signs are that they will. There is beginning to be a subtle something in the atmosphere which suggests a slight improvement already. Nevertheless, men's minds will still be full of their sufferings and anxieties since the smash in October, 1929. Their uppermost thoughts will be of means to safeguard themselves, if possible, against the repetition of such an experience.

The economic problem, then, inclusive of details such as tariff rates, income taxation, farm relief and unemployment insurance, surely will take precedence over everything else in the 1932 campaign.

Prohibition will be secondary. It may not even be a very close second, but it will be a long distance ahead of the rest of the field.

To some extent it is of especial consequence for the very reason that the economic question looms as formidable as it does.

That is to say, prohibition may be the deciding factor in normally one-sided elections which have been rendered politically unstable by the prolonged industrial depression.

This is notably true in the northeast, ordinarily so dependably Republican an area that the G. O. P. management, waging a dry fight (as it generally is assumed) will be placed in the position of having to do next year, could afford to disregard a certain amount of wet flopping to the rival ticket if a record of unbroken prosperity could be pointed to, in order to hold the bulk of the faithful together. The coming election, however, is not looked forward to as one at which any defections whatever can be regarded indifferently.

In connection with the situation in the north and east, where electoral votes are most numerous, Republican leaders are not comforted to note that dry Democrats seem moderately reconciled (at least more nearly so than in 1928) to the selection of a wetish candidate as their own party's standard bearer.

The truth is, in so far as prohibition is concerned, the G. O. P. appears to be worse split than the Jeffersonians. A state of affairs in which the Democrats bid fair to succeed in maintaining their dry southern solidarity, while simultaneously making a formidable bid for the unquestionably heavy wet votes of New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Ohio and Illinois, presents disadvantages, from a Republican standpoint, too manifest to require demonstration.

The effect of the lineup promises to be very distinctly wet-versus-dry—though, of course, there are many dries on the wet Democratic and many wets on the dry Republican side.

This wet-versus-dry lineup will be, however, largely an accidental result of the economic alignment. The Democrats, being the "outs" naturally are beneficiaries of the embarrassment of the Republicans, as the "ins" during a period of business distress.

But for the fact that they have the economic issue to combine on the Democrats probably never would have been able to subordinate the liquor issue within their own organization. That it happened to be subordinated wetly rather than dryly is perhaps partly due to the fact that the present G. O. P. administration is on the dry side; partly to the fact that the northern Democracy would have accepted no other condition and the southern wing can accomplish nothing without the northern element's co-operation.

The automatic consequence of the Democratic combination was to push all irreconcilable dries over to the G. O. P. The G. O. P. doubtless was glad to get them, but for all that, they make a practice of being completely contingent to consolidate with wet Republicanism.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

MENU HINT

LUNCHEON

Fruit, Stewed or Fresh
Bran Waffles Milk Syrup

DINNER

Cheese Souffle Green Peas
Hot Biscuits
Green Onions Radishes
Strawberry Shortcake Tea

These meals may be reversed and the luncheon be served for supper, or maybe, with the addition of orange juice, cereal and coffee, used for a breakfast menu.

Today's Recipes

Bran Waffles—One and one-half cups flour, one teaspoon salt, one and one-half tablespoons sugar, four teaspoons baking powder, three-fourths cup bran, two eggs, one and one-fourth cups milk, four tablespoons melted shortening. Sift the flour, salt, sugar and baking powder together; add the bran, the well-beaten eggs, milk, melted shortening. Beat well. Bake in hot waffle iron. Yield, 5 waffles.

Cheese Souffle—One-fourth cup butter, three tablespoons flour, one cup milk, one cup grated American cheese, three eggs, one-half teaspoon salt, paprika, one tablespoon onion juice. Prepare a cream sauce with butter, flour and milk. Cook this mixture until thick, then add the cheese and stir until melted. Add yolks of eggs, one-half teaspoon salt, paprika to taste and one teaspoon onion juice. Mix carefully and fold in stiffly-beaten egg whites. Turn into a greased baking dish and set in a pan of water in a moderate oven. Bake until firm.

Suggestions

Reinforcing Shoes

To reinforce worn soles of shoes, when soles of your shoes are worn thin and you do not wish to have them resoled, try this: From a roll of three-fourths-inch vulcanized tape cut strips long enough to cover thin part of sole. Lift up the inner lining of the sole, apply strips of tape, overlapping about one-fourth inch, until the sole is covered, being very careful to apply as smoothly as possible. Apply another layer crosswise and, if needed, even a third layer can be applied. Turn back your lining and your shoe is ready for more hard wear, entirely waterproof and will wear as long as the uppers will last. It seems the natural heat of the foot welds the tape with the leather of the sole. Try it and be convinced.

LOCATING THE PLANETS FOR JUNE

Mercury passes superior conjunction (far side of sun) June 29, becoming evening star; will be in conjunction with moon June 14, and moon will be new the 15th. Venus is still a white dazzling star in the east, seen before sunrise; is in conjunction with the moon June 14. Mars is in constellation Cancer. It passed eastern quadrature May 2 and is rapidly moving eastward, receding from the earth rapidly; is in conjunction with the moon June 21. Jupiter is in Gemini and is seen in the western sky during the early evening hours. Saturn is seen in Sagittarius. Uranus and Neptune—telescopic objects—are found in Pisces, and in Leo in conjunction with Mars the 16th, respectively.

No Normal Diet, Avers Doctor

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

There is no such thing as a normal diet, in the strict sense of the term. That is to say, there is no diet that everyone is agreed upon, which must be followed in order to be healthy. Certain things must be present in any diet that is healthy, but the proportion of different ingredients can vary in two different diets quite widely and still the two people eating them be healthy.

How close do average families, eating whatever comes along day after day, come to the ideal mathematical requirements of a normal diet? The question has been the subject of an investigation by the James Mackenzie Institute in Scotland.

Dr. James Mackenzie, perhaps the greatest clinical physician of the last generation, founded an institution in St. Andrews, Scotland, before his death for the study of the early stages of disease, a field which he considered was much neglected.

Studying the diet of 154 families it was found that on the average they were all eating less protein and less starch than they should, and more fat. The exact figures are as follows:

Percentage of Total Calories	Carbo-	Protein	Hydrate Fat
Ideal Standard	17	67	16
Actual, as eaten	11	54	35

There is no reason to suppose that these figures would be any different if any average group of American families were studied.

A strange finding was that the total number of calories consumed per person per day on the average was 3,100 for manual laborers, and 3,300 a day for those in sedentary occupations. It is recognized that those with sedentary occupations expend much energy on outdoor games and exercising, but it hardly seems possible they would need as much as a manual laborer. Can it be that the fellow playing golf is really using up as much energy as his friend wielding a pick? Or can it be that the fellow with the pick rests more than he seems to do?

Nutrition experts say that if more food is eaten than actual requirements call for and is not stored in the form of extra body weight, it goes into luxury consumption or secondary dynamic action.

The quality of food, even more than the quantity, varies with the family's income. With a rising income there is a tendency to spend more on foods rich in protein, such as butcher meat, and also to replace the starch in the food by fat. Miners, it was found, consumed more of their higher wages, consume more fat than agricultural laborers. There was, especially in Germany, a compulsory decline in the consumption of fat during the war. And at this time there was a sharp increase in the percentage of tuberculosis. It is probable that the high incidence of tuberculosis among the poorer classes is partly related to the low amount of fat in their diet. The same thing applies to the well-to-do, who deliberately starve themselves for the sake of style, or vanity.

Too Bad Like Doesn't Beget Like

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I have a very old problem. I like a certain boy and he doesn't appear to like me. We both attend high school and are both 16.

"What can I do to make him like me? I am nice looking, have nice clothes and come of a good family, so it can't be that. And he has the same qualifications.

"MARRY."

Yes, yours is an old problem, Mary, as old as the world. And it's one of those things that you can't do much about. It is too bad that like doesn't always beget like, isn't it, but so it is. And sometimes the harder one person likes another the more indifference she encounters.

In your case it may not be so bad, for you are young and you probably will change in a short time and wonder what you ever saw in G. And then maybe, so queer are people, he'll like you.

And that may be your cue. No matter what it costs you, treat him with supreme indifference. Don't let even your best friend know that you like him. It works sometimes.

MRS. M. B.: This column is not a matrimonial agency, Mrs. B., and cannot help you find a husband. Sorry I can't be more helpful.

HEART-BROKEN KID: Your letter was entirely too long to print, as you asked. I think the wisest thing for you to do is to go out with young people your own age, and, if possible, forget this married man.

Of course it may all be true that his wife doesn't love him and wants to get rid of him and the children, as she says. But it doesn't sound natural.

The thing for them to do is to separate if they feel as they say they do, and then he will be free.

Don't Apologize, Men, Step Up

By GLADYS GLAD

Although quite a number of men write to me about their various problems, their letters always sound so apologetic—as if, somehow, they were ashamed of themselves for taking an interest in their appearance. And why any man should think it a disgrace to be ordinarily well-groomed is beyond my comprehension. For it emphatically isn't! Look at Lou Tellegen, once the perfect matinee idol, who is now planning to stage a big comeback via the screen. Lou has just had his face beautifully lifted—and he doesn't care who knows it! He improved his appearance, and that's really all that matters to him.

The shamed feeling that so many males experience may have some bearing on the fact that men are generally far more careless about themselves than are women. Many of them do not realize just how often the much-advertised "body odor" makes their presence uncomfortable to women. And because men's labors are ordinarily so much more strenuous, their clothes so much heavier, and their eating so much heartier than women's, they are much likelier to be afflicted with this unpleasant condition.

Men's garb, in my opinion, is responsible for a great deal of their carelessness about themselves. The majority of men cannot afford the number of suits that a man should have to be immaculately groomed. Even with a plentiful supply of shirts, ties, collars and socks, it can't be pleasant to don the same suit day after day. Imagine a woman trying to get along with two, and sometimes only one, costume during an entire season!

Eventually some sort of improvement will be made in men's apparel, that will deliver them from their present period of suffocation. But until that time all men should be particularly careful to guard themselves against body odor, especially if they are afflicted with excessive of odoriferous perspiration. Frequent baths are absolutely essential, and every man's toilet equipment should include a good deodorant. A mild solution of warm water and alum is sometimes sufficient to remedy odoriferous perspiration. Three parts distilled water to one part alum; num chloride is especially effective in correcting excessive underarm perspiration. The solution should be applied once every three days for the first two weeks, and once a week thereafter.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Max C.: The lemon juice or peroxide should be allowed to dry on the skin after it is applied. Then a bit of cold cream should be used to counteract any drying effects. To prevent wrinkles, the skin must be protected from the sun. A coating of cold cream and powder will help.

Colors
Billie Jane: I think that you will find shades of tan, brown, burnt orange, dark reds, gray and green most becoming. You may wear off-the-face hats, and hats with small, lifted brims.

Nail-Biting
Mrs. E. C.: Tincture of aloes applied to the fingertips will help to break you of the nail-biting habit. The packs you mention are of equal merit. The egg white is first beaten until stiff, and then applied to the face and neck.

EDITOR'S NOTE: While it is impossible for Miss Glad to answer beauty questions by mail, she will be happy to send you her pamphlets on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" if you will write her, care of this paper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin for each, to cover cost of printing and handling. For her articles on "Care of the Feet and Legs," 2 cents in coin for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope are required. Personal questions on beauty will be answered through Miss Glad's daily column.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

Origin of softball in Xenia is still as deep a mystery as ever and many persons, including this department, would appreciate enlightenment on the subject.

It goes without saying that Kiwanis and Rotarians staged the first games played here, but the identity of the person or persons who got the two civic clubs interested in the sport less than a decade ago, eludes the memory of everyone, it appears.

Possibly the sponsor was Dick Nisbet, former Xenia Boy Scout Executive, who used to pitch on one of the two teams. Dick could probably shed light on the question.

It also develops that we had a mental collapse in a previous article and failed to give credit to the proper party for getting the sport organized here on a league basis.

Having had our memory jogged a trifle, a great light dawned and it all became clear that we lost a personage than "Hy" Hyman, the arch-villain of the last Theater Guild show, was responsible more than any other individual for developing a community interest in the game.

Five or six years ago Hy was umpiring a Rotary-Kiwanis game, and after taking a mental note of ability of the two teams, became convinced that he could get together a team that would give either club a trimming.

Furthermore, he put the idea into execution and organized the team which later became known as the Junior Business Men. Hy couldn't get a game, however, with the Kiwanis or Rotary, both teams advising him to get out and get a reputation first. So when the Boy Scouts also organized a softball nine and the high school did likewise, the J. B. M. played a series of games with these teams.

But Hy looked into the future and conceived the plan of organizing a regular league. He called a meeting and an invitation was broadcast over the city for other teams to be organized and enrolled. The response was instantaneous, as by this time, softball teams were springing up almost overnight. Thus the Xenia Playground League came into being in 1927 and functioned with ten teams in the fold.

Two years later, in 1929, Hy again had a happy thought and came forward with the suggestion that softball teams should form a permanent organization. He went so far as to draw up a tentative constitution, which was adopted with only minor revisions when representatives of teams in the field in 1928, met in the spring of 1929.

The Xenia Playground Association was chosen as the name of the organization and Fred Baldwin, Ohmer Tate and Earl Boxwell, enthusiastic followers of the sport, were elected officers. These three officers also constituted what was known as a Softball Commission, empowered to have full sway over the games played at Cox Field.

Boxie has served as secretary-treasurer of the association for the last three years, while Walker Gibney has been president and Paul Turnbull vice-president for the last two years.

The three commissioners, particularly Boxie, do all the work and the players and fans have the fun. The commissioners draw up the schedules, do most of the umpiring, raise most of the money to make ends meet every year and are responsible for keeping the diamond and field in shape and making improvements from time to time. It's a great life if the commissioners don't weaken.

SOFTBALL LOOP STANDINGS

You couldn't ask for better races than are being staged in the National and American softball leagues this season.

The Lang Chevrolet have a margin of only half a game over the Downtown Country Club in the National circuit, and Krippendorf is ahead of Central High by only one full game in the American group.

You may not believe it, but no double-headers are on this week's softball menu.

In the National League, the Red Wings will meet Woel's Barbers Monday night, the Downtowns will play the Graham Paints Wednesday night and Langs will face the Criterion Friday night.

In the event American League teams adhere to their schedule for a change this week, Central High will engage the All-Stars Tuesday night and Krippendorf will face St. Brigid Thursday evening. League standings:

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Team	Won	Lost	Pct.

LIBRARY GETS LIFE OF POET

Daughter Of Coates Kinney, Famed Xenian
Makes Gift Of Book

A copy of the "Interpretation of the Life and Poetry of Coates Kinney" by Debora MacNellan has been presented to the Greene County Library by the daughter of the poet Mrs. Lawrence Shields. This critical estimate of one of America's greatest poets has just been published by the Ohio State Archaeological and Historical Society as one means of paving the way to a broader knowledge and deeper appreciation of the later nineteenth century poets of Cincinnati and the Middle West.

This interpretive biography of Kinney, soldier, poet, editor and lawyer, was written by Miss MacNellan as her thesis for a Master of Arts degree, which was awarded her at Ohio State University last August. Miss MacNellan presents Kinney as "representative of a group of Ohio poets whose poetry is national in its scope and influence." To the author he "had the poets' all-seeing eye, for beyond the appearance of things he saw the reality," and he chose immorality as the theme of his life which was "a life of thinking, a life in the direction of truth."

"Because of his great theme death," she wrote, "his poetry has a melancholy tone which is kept sweet by the voice of hope singing throughout, now faintly, now triumphantly."

"But the future is not far off when men will realize the greatness of Coates Kinney. Now he belongs to Ohio, but ultimately he will belong to the world for all time."

Throughout the book, the author brings in the various works of Kinney as they apply to the high points in his life. Among them is Kinney's popular lyric, "Rain on the Roof," which brought him fame in 1849. "The poem," to quote Miss MacNellan, "touched the heartstrings of America; in fact it vibrated so perfectly with the homely experience of all that it soon became the property of all."

"Kapsalma" she rated as Kinney's masterpiece. In this poem as well as "Pessim and Optim" and "A Keen Swift Spirit," Miss MacNellan found Kinney "evolutionary pantheism."

Among other poems cited by Miss MacNellan are "Emma Stuart," a lyric on a disappointed love; "The Thought and the Word;" "Baby Fanny," which tells of the death of a daughter; "Keequa," an Indian legend; "Consummation," which describes his romance with Mary Catherine Allen of Xenia, whom he married in 1862; "To an Appletree;" "Child Lost;" "The American Citizen;" "The Wood-bird."

One of the many interesting points of Kinney's life as retold in Miss MacNellan's book, is the extemporaneous wedding address he made on behalf of Xenia citizens to General Grant, in 1879, when the Civil War general was touring the United States. The poet was also chosen to compose and deliver an ode at the Ohio Centennial celebration in Columbus September 4, 1888, in celebration of Ohio's progress, and which Miss MacNellan declares, "distinguishes him as a leading citizen and poet of the state." This ode has been declared by critics to be one of the finest pieces of occasional verse ever written by an American poet.

Much of the information about Mr. Kinney's life was obtained, the author declares, from Emerson Venable, literary executor and friend, William Henry Venable, father of Emerson Venable, and Mr. Kinney were close friends.

The Greene County District Library announces the addition of this book to its shelves with much pleasure as it is felt that this study of Mr. Kinney will be of interest to many Greene County residents.

Charging that Samuel D. Andrews is serving illegally as a board member and that bills paid by the board out of the treasury were paid illegally at various board meetings when there was not present a quorum of members, the plaintiffs claim the amount sought to be recovered represents payments unlawfully made.

Mrs. E. M. Anderson, wife of Horace Anderson, a board member, J. T. Anderson, Ralph DeVoe, C. S. McCoy and James Hubbard, are plaintiffs in the action, and F. A. Wolf, R. H. Murry, S. D. Andrews, board members, and R. E. Bryson, clerk-treasurer, are defendants.

Three Xenia youths who pleaded guilty Saturday to burglary and larceny charges were placed on probation for five years by Judge Robert C. MERCHANTS IDLE BECAUSE OF RAIN

Up to his old tricks, the weather man kept the Xenia Merchants idle Sunday afternoon by providing thundershowers. The Merchants had hoped to play a game with the Dayton Racers, a colored nine, at Washington Park, but the grounds became so wet that it was out of the question to stage the contest. An opponent for the Xenia nine next Sunday has not yet been booked by Manager Jess Chambliss.

LANGS BOOK GAME

The Lang Chevrolet Co., softball team, 1930 city champions and present leader of the National League, will seek to assert its authority in a neighboring city Tuesday night, playing an inner-city game with the strong William A. Shroyer and Sons team of Dayton. The contest will be staged on the No. 5 diamond at McCook Field and Manager Bill Baxley requests all members of the squad to report at the Lang Chevrolet Co. sales room at 5:45 o'clock.

GAME POSTPONED
Wet grounds caused postponement of a scheduled game between the Xenia and Troy junior American Legion baseball teams Sunday afternoon on the KilKare Park diamond. The game will be staged at the park next Sunday afternoon, it has been decided.

XENIA CHOIR HEARD SUNDAY IN DAYTON AT GUILD MEETING

The choir of the First United Presbyterian Church, this city, of which Miss Mary Keeley is director, took part in a program presented at a meeting of the Mid-Westminster Conductors' Guild at Runnymede Playhouse, Dayton, Sunday afternoon and evening. The Guild is one of several like associations throughout the country which has its members graduates of the Westminster Choir School, Ithaca, N. Y. Miss Keeley is a graduate of this school.

During the afternoon numbers were presented by choirs from Dayton, Richmond, Ind., Springfield, Columbus, Indianapolis, Ind., Sidney, Tippecanoe City, West Alexandria, Miamisburg and Xenia. The Xenia choir sang "Seek Ye Jehovah," a composition by Mrs. W. J. Cherry, this city. The choir will sing this number at union services of churches of the city at the First U. P. Church Sunday evening.

Sunday evening the combined choirs, under the direction of Dr. John Finley Williamson, presented a program and an address was given by Dr. Marshall Harrington, pastor of Central Presbyterian Church, Dayton, on "The Fellowship of Worship." Mrs. H. E. Talbot, who has been actively interested in Westminster Choir and the choir school also spoke Sunday evening.

COUNTY 4-H CLUB NEWS

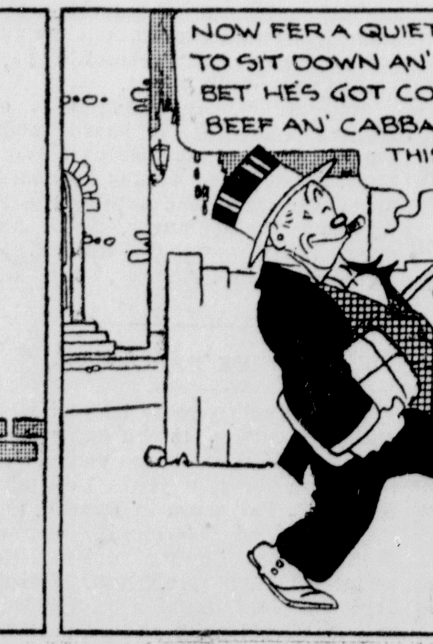

GIRLS' CLUB MEETS
Catherine Shane was elected president of the Girls' 4-H Club of New Jasper Twp. at a meeting held recently at the home of the advisor, Mrs. Cora Bootes. Other officers elected were Jane Hook, vice president; Charlotte Bootes, secretary-treasurer; Jeanette Bootes, recreation leader. The girls will take up the canning project this season and any girls interested in the subject are invited to join the club. The next meeting will be held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Bootes.

CHEERFUL CHERUBS MEET
The Cheerful Chubs of Spring Valley held their second meeting of the season Thursday afternoon. During the business session it was decided that a committee be appointed to draw up a constitution for the club. Reports were heard on projects and later games were played. Miss Ruth Radford, home demonstration agent, was a guest at the meeting and gave a short talk.

JEFFERSON CLUB MEETS
The Jefferson Twp. N. G. Girls held their second meeting at Jefferson Twp. School Thursday afternoon. Preceding the meeting a luncheon was served and members of the sewing club were invited guests. The next meeting will be held at the school Friday afternoon.

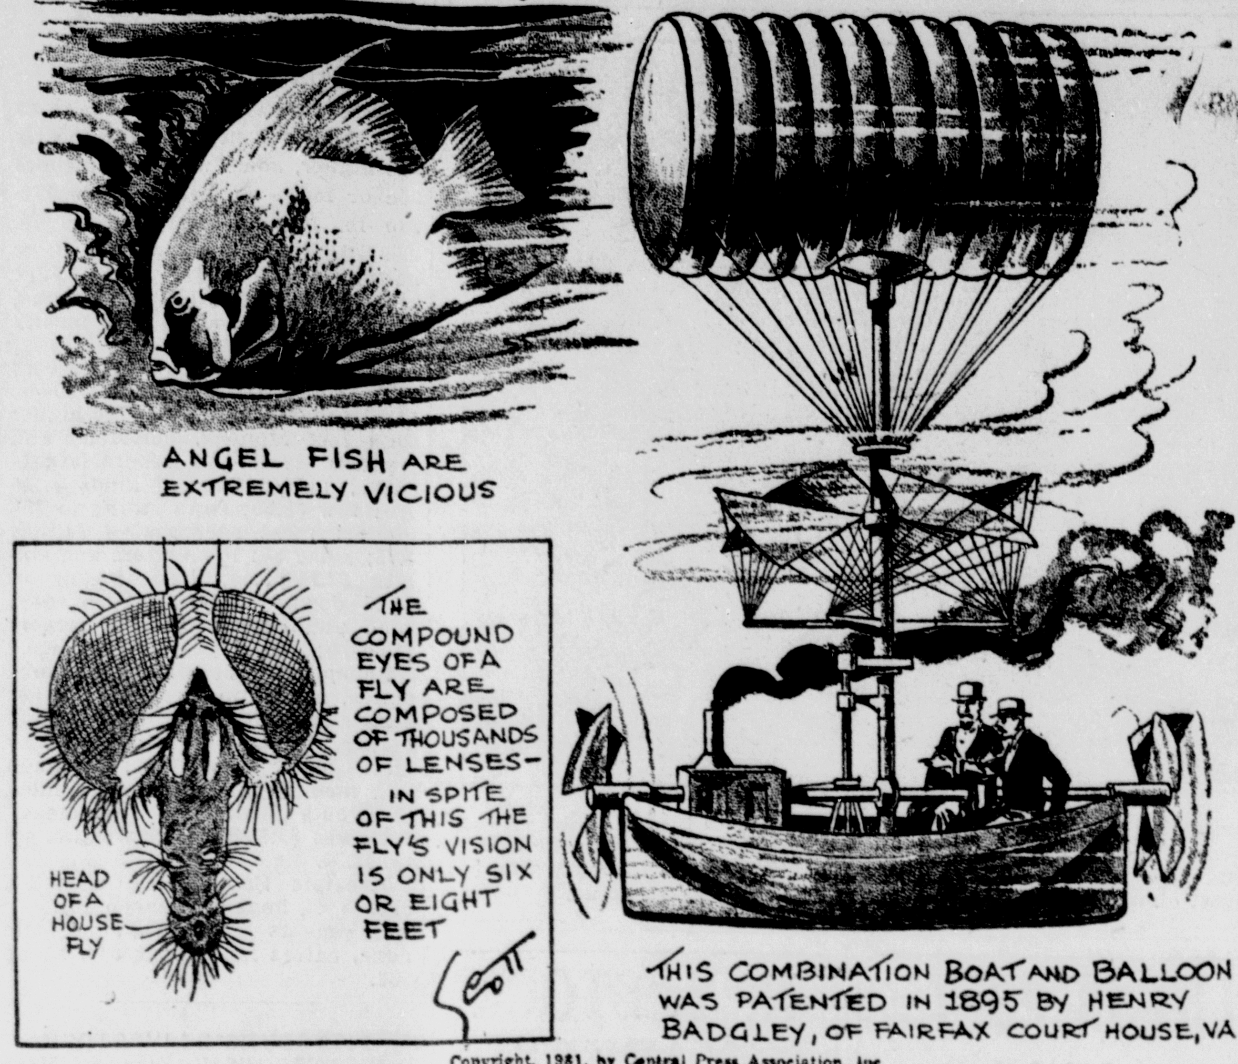

HIS MAGIC FAILED
PARIS—"If I can pick an egg out of an empty hat I can pluck a few bills from a large roll," thought Samson Nissam, magician, returning from an American tour. So he went to work every morning at eight o'clock in the most crowded subway station he could pick, Pickings were good. But when he tried to pinch the roll of an inspector of the judiciary police, the cop pinched him. Now he languishes in jail trying to pick the lock.

Mary could have shouted for joy, right there in the pretentious foyer of the hotel. She looked about her, giddy, half wondering whether she had made an articulate sound. Then she turned to the paper again to verify what her eyes had glimpsed before. Could it be true? Yes, it was still there—Wellmade Products was quoted at 51½, with an active market. The day had been a good one for the general market, too. Would she return at once to New York? Not even an airplane could take her there too fast.

She took the night train, and went directly to the office from the station. Foster was there, radiant and voluble. His greeting was affectionate and respectful. "Well, little partner, you are the heroine of the hour. I wish I might decorate you for valor at a public ceremony, but that would never do. No one must ever know how near this firm came to failure, except you and I. Did you have a nice trip?"

"Lovely! But the nicest part is getting home again. Have you seen Dick this week?" He smiled at her serious concern. "Oh, yes, he was in several times, hoping to find you were back, I suppose. He had a busy day yesterday and he was jubilant over the turn of the tide. I believe he bought some of that last big issue that almost ruined so many of us."

"Yes, and more than he could risk. I am so glad for him!"

"Frazier has been waiting for you, too. I feel sorry for the fellow, Mary. He would rather have you than the money he gave you, I can see that."

"I know, and I'm sorry for him, too. Even for your sake and all the rest, I never could have held out this hope to him, if I had not been helping him at the same time. How soon will it be possible for me to repay him?" "Today, if you wish. This turn in the market and the rise in stocks did for us just what I thought it would. I've had my lesson, and it won't happen again, unless everything falls. I feel like a new man, Mary, and you are the one who saved me. I shall not forget that."

"I am just happy to have been of any help. If only I did have to let poor Martin down, everything would be lovely."

"Poor Martin! Fancy Martin Frazier being poor! And he will be, at that, if he has to lose you, wanting you as he does. Funny old world," he sighed.

"It hasn't been very funny for me these few years. Rather, quite serious," Mary said thoughtfully. Then added, "But I wouldn't have missed a minute of it. I know, now, why people who struggle with problems are the big and wise and happy people. You feel just that way every time you conquer a trouble or solve a problem—bigger and wiser and happier."

LOITERERS TARGET OF POLICE DRIVE

Seeking to stem the wave of petty robberies, police have started a crusade against loitering on the streets late at night and in the wee hours of the morning. Four youths were arrested about 2:30 a. m. Sunday on charges of loitering and two of them were fined $10 and costs each by Municipal Judge E. Dawson Smith Monday morning.

The fines were imposed upon Carl Brown, 18, of 14 California St., and Arthur L. Mowen, 20, of 528 W. Second St. Both were sent to jail in lieu of payment.

Two 17-year-old boys, arrested with Brown and Mowen, were turned over to Juvenile Court.

WOMAN IS FINED

Pleading guilty to drunkenness and disorderly conduct, Ada Honaker, 23, colored, S. Galloway St., was fined $25 and costs by Judge Smith and committed to jail in default of payment. She was arrested Sunday afternoon.

BOND FORFEITED

Bond of $2 posted by Steve Nibhal, one of the proprietors of a Xenia restaurant, after he had been ticketed by police for parking an auto in a reserved space, was ordered forfeited by Judge Smith Monday for non-appearance in court.

LIGHTNING CAUSES DAMAGE TO CHIMNEY

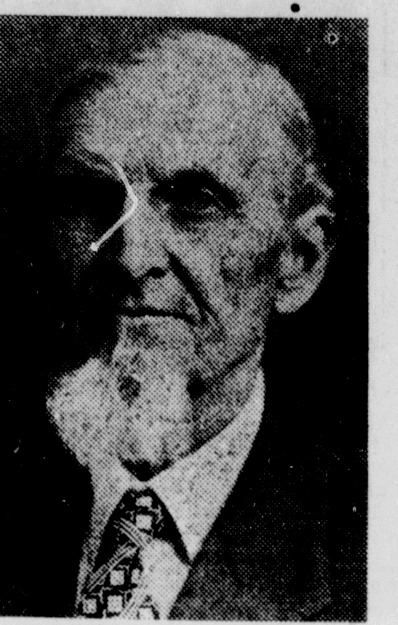

Although the dwelling was shaken and filled with soot, no fire resulted and slight damage was caused when lightning struck a chimney on a house owned by Mrs. Ida Stinz, Dayton, and occupied by Charles Ralls, W. Market St., during a thunderstorm at 9 o'clock Saturday night.

Several bricks were knocked loose from a chimney and the family, becoming alarmed, turned in a fire alarm. Services of firemen were not needed, however.

Twenty-five minutes later firemen were summoned to extinguish the blaze when a sedan owned by J. C. Hawkins, colored, parked in front of his garage on Columbus St. between Main and Market Sts., was ignited by a short circuit in the wiring. Damage was slight.

The two runs Saturday night brought the total number of alarms to which the department has responded this year to fifty-seven.

ROBERT SPAHR, 88, VETERAN OF CIVIL WAR, CALLED HERE

ROBERT SPAHR

Robert Schenck Spahr, 88, Civil War veteran, died at his home at 711 S. Detroit St., Saturday evening at 5 o'clock. He had been seriously ill two days suffering from infirmities of age.

Mr. Spahr was a member of well known pioneer families of Greene County, his father being the Rev. Gideon Spahr, former pastor of an M. E. Church here, and his mother, who was before marriage, Miss Elizabeth Kyle, was a granddaughter of Jacob Smith, prominently connected with the early history of Xenia and Greene County.

Mr. Spahr was born in Xenia Twp., April 1, 1843. In September, 1861, at the age of 17, he enlisted in the Union Army at Wilmington and served three years as a member of Co. B, 40th Ohio Volunteer Infantry. He took part in about forty engagements and among the hardest fought were the battles of Chattanooga, Chickamauga, "the battle above the clouds" on Look-out Mountain, Missionary Ridge and Resaca, Ga. He was seriously wounded at Pumpkin Vine Creek, north of Kennesaw Mountain. After his discharge from the hospital he was detailed as a clerk in the office of Assistant Adjutant-General Grover at Columbus and he was honorably discharged from the army in September, 1864. He was among the last surviving members of Lewis Post, G. A. R., Xenia.

On April 25, 1872 he was married to Martha Ann Saville and they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary three years preceding Mrs. Spahr's death December 25, 1925. The following children survive: Albert G. Spahr, Ralph O. Spahr, Sherwin G. Spahr, all of Xenia; Howard S. Spahr, Mrs. Fannie Ledbetter, Dayton; J. Lester Spahr, Earl R. Spahr, Columbus and Mrs. Lester L. Bickett, Boswell, Ind. A brother, the Rev. Samuel K. Spahr, Greensboro, N. C., also survives. A son, Leut. Homer C. Spahr and two brothers, Dr. D. E. Spahr and the Rev. A. N. Spahr, preceded him in death.

Mr. Spahr moved from his farm near Caesar Creek on the Wilmington Pike to the Springfield Pike, in 1903 and moved to his present home in 1921. He was a member of Lewis Post, G. A. R., and of Trinity M. E. Church. Funeral services will be held at that church Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Friends will meet at the home at 2 p. m. Burial will be made in Woodland Cemetery.

FATHER OF XENIAN CLAIMED BY DEATH

Frank W. Mann, 86, father of Earl E. Mann, manager of Jobe's department store here, died Saturday morning in Long Beach, Calif., according to word received by his son. He has been in failing health a month.

Mr. Mann was a veteran of the Civil War and attended the national G. A. R. encampment in Cincinnati last year. He had often visited his son here. Besides his son here another son, Fred P. Mann and a daughter, Mrs. M. D. Kavanaugh, both of Devil's Lake, N. D., survive.

The remains will be shipped to Devil's Lake for burial there on Thursday. Mr. Mann will leave for Devil's Lake Monday night.

The Theater

Officers of the Xenia Little Theater Guild for the coming year will be elected at the annual dinner meeting of the organization Friday evening in the dining room at Central High School.

Mrs. James Wilson III is arranging a one-act play for entertainment that evening, using an opus of Barrie that the great playwright never finished. He is said to have resisted all efforts to learn what his intentions were about ending the piece.

The campaign for members for next year was launched at the final Guild play of the season, "East Lynne," by Fred Flynn, president, who urged patrons to fill out blanks passed to the audience on entering.

Tom Hefflin) and a granddaughter of a former U. S. senator. She was a schoolmate at an eastern boarding school of Mrs. S. N. McClellan, Xenia. The story is by Donald Ogden Stewart and the cast includes Olive Brook, Phoebe Foster, Alexander Kirkland, Osgood Perkins and Elizabeth Patterson.

Edward G. Robinson, the actor who made all other gangster characters fade into insignificance, is at the Bijou Friday and Saturday as the name part of "Little Caesar," the role that gave him his reputation. The film is touted as the cream of all films about the baddies. Robinson is supported by Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Glenda Farrell, Sidney Blackmer, Thomas Jackson, Ralph Ince, William Collier Jr., Maurice Black, Stanley Fields and George E. Stone. Glenda is a stage importation, in case you didn't know.

Twenty Years '11- Ago -'31

Lewis Anderson, member of a Xenia team of marksmen, hit forty-eight out of a possible fifty birds and was high man at a shoot on the Dayton N. C. R. Gun Club's grounds.

Arthur M. Schlesinger arrived home from Columbia University, where he has completed his first year as a student.

The Central Union Telephone Co. is now engaged in running a direct line between Xenia and Wilmington.

Mr. John Vanderpool left for California, where he will visit relatives for several weeks in Los Angeles.

Such as one is "Behind Office Doors" which makes its last appearance at the Bijou Theater Monday night after opening there Sunday. The picture features Mary Astor, Robert Ames, Ricardo Cortez, Catherine Dale Owen and others.

Xenians will get their first opportunity to see Sylvia Sidney, the girl who replaced Clara Bow on the Paramount lot, in "City Streets" at the Bijou Tuesday and Wednesday. She plays opposite Gary Cooper in the first role he has had for three years in which he wears civilian clothes. The Bow was originally cast for the part. The story is another gangster version and the cast includes Paul Lukas, William Boyd, Guy Kibbee, Stanley Fields, Wynne Gibson and Betty Sinclair.

"Tarnished Lady" at the Bijou Thursday will be Tallulah Bankhead's debut in Xenia. The Alabama beauty who smote them dumb in London for seven years is a native of Huntsville, Ala., a daughter of Congressman William B. Bankhead, a niece of Senator-elect John H. Bankhead (who beat

SPANISH WAR VETERANS ENJOY REUNION AT HOME HERE SUNDAY

W. I. Johnson, 517 Ohio St., Dayton, was elected president of the Third Ohio Volunteer Infantry Association of Spanish-American War veterans at the annual meeting at the O. S. and S. O. Home here Sunday afternoon.

He succeeds Col. W. T. Amos, Clancy, member of the Home trustee board, who served as president for the last year. Lieut. Fay,

Georgetown, battalion adjutant of the old Third Ohio, was elected vice president.

Each company in the association has its own secretary and all were re-elected. Three hundred and forty members attended the meeting, dining at the Home at 1 o'clock and attending a program in the school auditorium later. Addresses were made by General George H. Woods, Dayton, former governor of national military homes, Clarence M. Brinkley, Dayton, past Ohio department commander of the United Spanish American War Veterans and Chas. J. Heintz, Dayton, also a past department commander.

Secretaries of each company submitted reports. Musical entertainment for the meeting was furnished by the Home Cadet Band and the girls' octette. Following the meeting the guests witnessed a battalion dress parade. The place and time of the next meeting are left to the discretion of the new president.

tate us into action, but we must recognize the fact that we cannot make our whole diet of red pepper. People come to me talking about self expression, but I do object to some of the selves that are expressed.

"Some of our present day leaders who seek self expression remind me of small boys, who when a parade forms, are blocks ahead of the band, but who always look back to see which way the band is going. Others are like the collie dog who barks at the train as it rushes by. That these people get a certain self-satisfaction in this activity must be true, but it is also true that their activity makes no imprint on the civilization of their time."

Most leaders, Dr. Matthews declared, displayed an immense amount of enthusiasm for a cause which has not yet been initiated. Once the cause has begun, however, and they find themselves in the midst of it the enthusiasm dies.

In tribute to the founders of Wilberforce, who seventy-five years ago began their work for Negro education, the Chicago theologian pointed out: "The founders of Wilberforce were men who were able to administer a cause once they had gotten in the midst of this. To do such a thing required courage, and this, these men possessed in large degree. It is easier to be a prophet denouncing than to be an apostle organizing."

As a closing word to the graduates, the speaker counseled: "The world is in need of young people who believe that things can be done. It is in need of people who feel that brotherhood is an expression of the cosmic relation rather than a vague sentimentality. We make the world safe for democracy and then have to look around to try to find a democrat who is safe for the world." That the philosophy of futility and frustration seems to be a popular one with the intelligentsia was the belief expressed by the speaker but his message of hope to those who now go out into the world, was that there is always hope and room for the person who is "steadfast and immovable in the Lord Jesus Christ."

The special musical program included Stainer's "God So Loved the World" and Hatcher's "Yet, I Will Rejoice," by the University Chorus and a soprano solo, "I Will Extol Thee," by Miss Claudia Stevenson. Miss Grace Edwards, organist, played as the processional, Wagner's Grand March from "Tannhauser" and as the postlude Verdi's March of the War Priest from "Aida."

In the afternoon a concert by the university band under direction of Prof. Howard Daniel, was given. Both the morning and afternoon exercises were broadcast over the campus by powerful amplifiers installed for the occasion, making it possible for the crowd, which in the morning overflowed Jones' Auditorium, to hear all of the services.

An address by Dr. O. H. Sweet, Detroit, Mich., followed the band concert in the afternoon and in the evening the Rev. J. A. Allen, Dayton, president of the Connecticut Council of Churches gave the annual address to the students of Payne Theological Seminary. The session was in charge of the Rev. George Woodson, dean of the seminary.

Bishop John Gregg of Kansas City, Kan., former president of the fifth episcopal district, ordained P. O. Bryant of the New York Conference; Walter Stewart of the Arkansas Conference and George Matthews of the Delaware Conference as deacons. Bishop Gregg was assisted in the ordination ceremony by Bishop J. H. Jones, Dean George F. Woodson, and the Revs. H. H. Summers, L. C. Fisher, L. C. Ridley and other visiting ministers. An organ recital in charge of Miss Alberta Goens and students of the music department will be given Monday evening at 6 o'clock and at 8 o'clock a historical pageant of the university will be presented by fraternities and sororities of the school. The exercises mark the celebration of the sixty-eighth annual commencement and the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the school.

STIMSON, MELLON VISIT EXPECTED TO PROVE SIGNIFICANT

tained the official silence. Questioned as to the conversations that took place yesterday while he was a guest at Chequers, Shaw refused to comment.

"I can't speak of what happened at Mr. MacDonald's home," he replied.

Asked whether he had a solution of his own to meet the crisis, Shaw, who generally has at least some caustic comment to make on most subjects, turned from his interviewers.

"Absolutely none whatever," he emphasized.

While the Germans went to England primarily to discuss their own situation, the British leaders used the occasion to broach their own troubled condition as a result of the world depression.

The joint communique issued by the conferees was devoted entirely to the discussions of finances, although it was known that some of the talk centered on disarmament.

The first results of the two-day conferences were expected here today to be evidenced by a move to obtain an international loan for Germany in order to lead her out of her present financial slough. Such a loan was granted Austria in 1922. As it is understood that the British warned their German guests not to seal a customs union with Austria, observers here saw another move to hasten a European accord.

TWENTY-MILLIONTH FORD COMING HERE

Thearl White of Bryant Motor Sales, local Ford dealer, announced Monday that the twenty-millionth Ford car, which left Dearborn April 14 on a nation-wide tour, will arrive in Xenia Thursday, June 11.

This car, which was assembled in the presence of Henry and Edsel Ford, will make an over-night stop at the show room of Bryant Motor Sales. Mr. White is arranging for suitable ceremonies to mark the visit.

XENIAN TO RECEIVE HONORARY DEGREE

Mrs. John P. White, 214 E. Second St., this city, will receive the honorary degree of Litt. D. at the seventy-fifth commencement of Monmouth College, Monmouth, Ill., Thursday, according to word received by the Rev. James P. Lytle, pastor of the First U. P. Church here, and chairman of the permanent committee of the senate of the college. Mrs. White is editor of "The Women's Missionary Magazine" of the United Presbyterian Church. Mrs. White will be present to receive the award and to attend graduation exercises of her daughter, Miss Ruth White.

Mrs. White's degree will be the only special degree awarded at the Diamond Jubilee commencement. The degree of Doctor of Divinity will be awarded the Rev. Lee E. Rife, Philadelphia, who is well known in this vicinity, and to the Rev. H. Ross Hume, Cannonsburg, Pa., a son of the late Dr. R. H. Hume, Springfield.

CHICAGO BANKS IN HUGE MERGERS

TWO INSTITUTIONS FORMED WHEN HUGE ASSETS ARE JOINED

Three Large Banks
Remain; Foreman
Bank Absorbed

CHICAGO, June 8.—Two big Loop bank mergers were completed early today after conferences which started at noon Saturday.

The First National Bank of Chicago made the only bid for the deposits of the Foreman-State National Bank and the Foreman State Trust and Savings Bank, amounting to nearly $200,000,000 and Arthur Reynolds, chairman of the board of the Continental Illinois Bank, announced that the First National was taking over the business immediately.

An hour later, consolidation of the Central Trust Co. of Illinois and the National Bank of the Republic was announced. These two banks have combined deposits of about $250,000,000 and now will be known as the Central Republic Bank and Trust Co.

The consolidations give the city three large banks, the first National with resources of $853,000,000, the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust Co. with resources of $1,122,942,654 said to be the largest bank in the world under one roof and the Central Trust National Bank of the Republic merger with resources of $350,000,000. Last night amalgamations caused a shifting of approximately $1,250,000,000 resources.

An indemnity fund of $12,550,000, part subscribed by stockholders and directors and $10,000,000 advanced by members of the Chicago Clearing House Association accompanied the transfer of the Foreman Bank deposits to the First National organization, guaranteeing it against loss in liquidation.

Experts put to work Saturday at noon worked frantically until late last night analyzing the positions of the banks.

While reports of various groupings spread about the loop financial sector, leaders of Chicago finance gathered for consultation. Among them was Charles G. Dawes, ambassador to England, who is honorary chairman of the Central Trust Company, and who founded the bank Reynolds, chairman of the Continental Illinois executive committee and dean of Chicago bankers; James B. McDougal, governor and Eugene M. Stevens, chairman of the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank; Melvin A. Trowler, president of First National, and State Auditor Oscar Nelson.

FACULTY ASKS MILLER RETURN

Demands Trustees To Rescind Action

COLUMBUS, O., June 8.—Reinstatement of Dr. Miller, ousted from the presidency of the University of Ohio State University faculty members in a petition which was presented last night to President George W. Rightmire, it became known today.

The petition, calling upon the board of trustees to rescind its action of May 22 in discharging Dr. Miller, was personally presented to the president in his home on the campus last night by Dean Walter J. Shepard of the college of arts and sciences.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 8.—Petitions signed by forty members of the Yale University faculty were today sent to the Ohio State University trustees protesting against the dismissal of the president, Dr. A. Miller, one of the leaders in the recent agitation to abolish compulsory military training at the Ohio institution.

The Yale petitions are signed by the deans of the law school, the graduate school and the divinity school and leading faculty members of the three schools. The list also includes the names of Professor Irving Fisher, noted economist, Harold J. Laski, James Harvey Rogers and Edwin M. Boregard.

LIBERTY BONDS.—Opening Liberty bond quotations today were as follows: Liberty first 4 1/4's, 103.13; Liberty fourth 4 1/4's, 104.28; treasury 4's, 109.9; treasury 3 1/2's '41, 102.28.

TREASURY BALANCE.—WASHINGTON, June 8.—Treasury balance as of June 5, $75,721,268.00; expenditures $10,156,984.26; customs receipts $5,341,242.97.

FIVE MILLION DOLLAR BLAZE HITS NORFOLK

Twenty-Four Hurt;
Seven Blocks And Wharf Burned

NORFOLK, Va., June 8.—With more than twenty persons injured and damage estimated as high as $5,000,000, a fierce fire which raged in Norfolk's business district was put under control early today.

Seven blocks were destroyed before rain aided firemen of Norfolk and half a dozen neighboring cities in stopping the advance of the flames. Marines and sailors from Hampton Roads also helped combat the fire.

Twenty-four workmen were removed to hospitals, suffering from burns and the effects of smoke. The fire started when an explosion rocked an oil barge at the wharf near the business section. The flames, fanned by a wind from the sea, spread rapidly to adjoining docks and then engulfed the business district. The residential sections were in danger when the fire was finally conquered.

The Buxton line steamer David was burned, but other boats were moved to safety.

The Victrola Hotel was completely destroyed. Many guests lost all their belongings.

Other buildings destroyed were those occupied by the American Peanut corporation, National bag and Paper Company, Rosedale Dairy, Crocklin-Levy store, Swift and Company, and City Hay and Grain Company.

Many warehouses and plants in the west section of the city were completely destroyed.

BILL CUTTING TASK STILL CONTINUES

COLUMBUS, O., June 8.—The arduous task of cutting millions of dollars from the big biennial appropriation bill was resumed today by the senate and house finance committees.

Effort is being made by both committees to come as close as possible to balancing the state's budget—by trimming the $42,000,000 appropriation measure so that the state's operating expenses during the two-year period ending Jan. 1, 1925, will not exceed the revenues during the biennium.

COAL MINERS STRIKE.—STUEBENVILLE, O., June 8.—Organized as the "National Miners' Union," more than 200 employees of the Hanna Coal Co. at Pineyford, O., near here, planned to strike today.

Germany Happy Over Result Of Meeting On Reparations

LONDON, June 8.—While a cloak of diplomatic secrecy descended today upon the actual conversations between British and German ministers at Chequers, the eyes of all Europe were focused on the proposed visit of Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon.

Secretary Mellon and Secretary Stimson expect to sail for Europe late this month. Secretary Stimson announced that he would confer with European leaders while abroad. Although they definitely announced that their trip would be made unofficially, it was evident here that they will probably be called upon to discuss reparations, the primary topic of discussion at Chequers.

All of the participants in the two-day conference at the summer home of Premier Ramsay MacDonald at which Chancellor Heinrich Brüning and Foreign Minister Dr. Julius Curtius placed before the British leaders Germany's need for economic assistance pledged themselves to silence. The Germans cancelled all promised interviews and allowed yesterday's joint communiqué to stand except a brief statement last night.

One member of the German delegation, said that they were well pleased with the results of their trip to England.

"The next developments depend upon the reception of the Chequers results in Germany and other countries. That something will happen by fall is obvious," he said.

An article in the London Express today was seen as the opening of a barrage to force the United States to cancel the war debts. The article said:

"The first move toward the settlement of the problems should come from America. It is fundamentally wrong that Great Britain should pay a hundred cents on the dollar for war supplies that were intended for a common purpose.

"The war supplies were purchased at a price which put millions of pounds profit in the coffers of United States steel companies."

Even George Bernard Shaw, blunt and outspoken author, maintained that the world is in need of persons who will do things instead of standing idly by denouncing the work of others, was the message of Dean Shaler Matthews of the School of Religion of the University of Chicago to the ninety-eight members of the Wilberforce University graduating class in his baccalaureate sermon here Sunday morning.

Taking his text: "Be ye steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the works of the Lord," from Paul's letter to the Corinthians, Dean Matthews said: "We are today, as of years ago, faced with a world in which there are two dominant attitudes of mind, one which says that there is nothing worth while and the other which says that labor is not in vain if done in the spirit of Jesus Christ."

The speaker continued, saying that the world today is full of pessimistic persons whose principal pleasure seems to come in criticizing. "What we need," he declared, "is a social psychiatric treatment. We have had neurones of optimism and now we are afflicted with a neurone of pessimism. To be a real pessimist, however, one must be prosperous, for then one is in danger of losing some possession. The person who has nothing has everything to hope for and nothing to lose."

When I hear these people talking about pessimism I feel like telling them to take a good dose of the book of Ecclesiastes, for there we have one of the first expressions of the pessimistic attitudes of mind.

These same persons, who shout pessimism, the speaker pointed out, end up by urging all mankind to recognize each other as brothers—comrades in doom, they would have us become. What we have, he explained, is more like a comradeship in gloom rather than in doom.

Referring to present day radicals, Dr. Matthews said: "We need a certain quota of radicals to irritate."

DANGEROUS GUNMAN BELIEVED INSANE

CHICAGO, June 18.—Frank McErlane, labelled Chicago's "cruelest gangster" and credited with inventing the "ride" today was faced with incarceration in an insane asylum.

He was found Friday in the rain blazing away with two shotguns and a pistol at imaginary enemies and upon arraignment today was to be sent to the Psychopathic Hospital for observation.

For twenty years, McErlane has been on the police records as a thief, bootlegger and killer. He was once head of a powerful south side beer gang but his power has waned.

GIRL PLEADS TO BE ALLOWED TO DIE

CLEVELAND, June 8.—Pleading with hospital attendants to "let me die," a pretty girl about 25 years of age, who was found unconscious in a west side hotel room assigned to "Helen Nelson, Buffalo," regained consciousness in City Hospital here today.

"Am I going to die?" was the girl's first question when she became conscious after physicians had worked unceasingly over her since she was taken to the hospital Saturday.

When informed she would live, the girl pleaded to be left alone. "I want to die. I will not tell you my name. Please leave me alone," she cried.

A maid found the girl Saturday two days after she had registered at the hotel. An empty bottle, which police said had contained a slow-acting poison, was found in her room giving rise to the belief that she had attempted suicide. Physicians have been unable to

Three Members Of One Family Killed At Rail Crossing

By International News Service
A Circleville woman toppled off a cliff to her death at a picnic, a prominent Hamilton youth was drowned in the great Miami River, a Portsmouth boy was shot by a revolver in the hands of a chum, and five persons were killed in automobile collisions, a check-up of week-end accidents showed today.

The drowning at Columbus late Saturday of two Negro youths while hunting bait, along with various other accidents, boosted the total of week-end fatalities from unusual causes to eleven, International News Service learned.

Miss Louise Smith, 26, fell twenty feet to her death while attending a picnic with a party of friends near Chillicothe.

Peter Kremer, 21, one of a prominent family of florists, drowned while swimming at a summer camp at Fairplay, O., near Hamilton. His cousin, Joseph Kremer, also of Hamilton, almost lost his own life in an attempt to rescue him.

Police called the shooting at Portsmouth of Clyde Kennedy, 18, "accidental," following an investigation. James Clay Setters, 15, jokingly pointed his father's gun at Kennedy and accidentally pulled the trigger.

Glenn Luther Pickett, seven years old, slipped from the bank of Alum Creek at Columbus while catching minnows and was drowned. His companion, John Dunlap, 12, drowned when he jumped in after him.

MAID IS FOUND SLAIN BY FILE

CHICAGO, June 8.—Beaten and stabbed to death, the body of Miss Rose Kulser, 20, a housemaid, was found today in a fresh pool of blood in the basement of an exclusive apartment building where she was employed.

A sharp steel file had been driven into her heart and was still embedded in her body when it was discovered by another maid, May Connolly, whose screams aroused tenants and caused notification of the police.

Aside from the stab wound, the skull bore five fractures from a blunt instrument.

HOOVER SATISFIED BY NAVY PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Apparently well satisfied with his navy economy program, as worked out in conferences with naval chiefs over the week-end, President Hoover returned to the White House from his Rapidan fishing camp this morning.

Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson, who is the administration's chief adviser in disarmament matters, accompanied the President on the return trip.

PILOTS AUTOGIRO ACROSS COUNTRY

LOS ANGELES, June 8.—Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam had added another new record to her list today—the first woman to pilot an autogiro across the continent.

She arrived yesterday after enduring a little uneasiness by being two hours overdue in a fog which caused a commercial line to cancel its flights.

VISITS COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, O., June 8.—Evangeline Booth, commander of the Salvation Army in the United States, was to visit Columbus today on her 2000-mile automobile tour of the army's posts. Arrangements were made here for Commander Booth to address a public service from the steps of the state house.

SLAYER ADMITS DELLY MURDER AFTER ARREST

Filipino Reconstructs
Death Of Brooklyn
Specialist

NEW YORK, June 8.—Because his girl needed some money, Gavaine Demiar, undersized Filipino, killed Dr. George E. Deely, noted Brooklyn specialist and philanthropist, in his bachelor apartment, according to police.

Demiar, also known as George Damico, today confessed the vicious knife murder of his former employer, police said.

Demiar was arrested after he was trailed through a week-end visit to Philadelphia when he returned to New York.

"I went to his house to rob Dr. Deely," the Filipino allegedly confessed. "The girl with whom I was living needed money and I knew the doctor always kept some in the house."

Dr. Deely was found slashed to death, his pajama-clad body sprawled on the Oriental rug of his luxurious apartment in the fashionable center of Brooklyn. His head had been bled.

Radio wire was wrapped around his body as if an attempt had been made to strangle him.

Demiar said that he had moved from furnished room to furnished room in an effort to escape the trail of the law.

He was overtaken by detectives in Philadelphia. He was not placed under arrest until the party reached New York in order to avoid extradition complications.

The Filipino was taken to the doctor's apartment to reenact the crime.

Finds Unholy Alliance With Crime; Senate Is Criticized

WASHINGTON, June 8.—What this country needs is not more laws, but better prosecution of the laws already on the statute books.

That is the verdict of the Wickersham law enforcement commission, rendered today after months of investigation into the prosecution records of the country, and the manner in which prosecutors' offices are administered.

Without getting specific, the commission found in some places "a close connection between corrupt local political organizations and criminal organizations."

"Campaign funds are derived from what amounts to licensed violations of the law," the commission said.

"Under political conditions which exist in large cities, except for occasional outbursts of popular indignation, prosecutors are likely to be selected with reference to exigencies of political organizations rather than with reference to the tasks of law enforcement."

The commission also criticized the system under which the senate approves nominees for district attorney.

"The claim of the senate," the report stated, "not merely to exercise a collective power of rejecting unit nominations, but to dictate appointments as the patronage of senators from the state in which the district lies often has had a bad effect upon the personnel and conduct of the office."

The commission's report on prosecution is but one of a series which it is completing by June 30, covering the entire system of American jurisprudence and court procedure.

FIRES BLAMED ON LIGHTNING BOLTS

CINCINNATI, O., June 8.—Fires started by lightning which struck a church and a garage caused damages of more than $70,000, it was estimated today.

The Fairmount Presbyterian Church was set ablaze during an electrical storm when lightning struck the structure's steeple.

Lightning also was responsible for the firing of a garage in the industrial section of Mariemont, a suburb. The building and fourteen trucks were destroyed.

FOUR WOUNDED BY SHOTS FROM PASSING AUTO

Policeman And Three Prisoners Hurt;
Hoodlums Flee

DAYTON, O., June 8.—A policeman and three prisoners were wounded here today when four men driving slowly by the Ford St. police station opened fire and riddled the building with shotgun pellets. The hoodlums then "stepped on the gas" and sped away.

The prisoners wounded by the scattered shot were Vincent Nagy, 19; George Clark, 40, of Sioux City, Ia., and Alfred Berry, 28 Negro.

Patrolman George Reese, who was acting as turnkey at the jail, was nipped by a few of the shotgun pellets and was cut by flying glass as it cracked under the gunfire and showered over the jail office.

Police believe the motive of the four hoodlums was either to effect a jailbreak or "to get" one of the prisoners in order to silence him from divulging any underworld information.

Only a few jail attaches were present at the time the hoodlums raided the jail. They summoned additional police squads and gave chase, but by the time a posse was organized the hoodlum quartet had succeeded in making good an escape.

A detective who was stationed at the railroad yards nearby the police station saw the hoodlum automobile driving past. He reported that it bore Indiana license plates.

Close on the heels of the bride's divorce from James A. Stillman, McCormick, 33, was best man at the wedding of "Bud" Stillman, his bride's son, to Lena Wilson, daughter of a Canadian farmer, in 1927. The former Mrs. Stillman is 52.

STRIKE RIOTS FLARE; BOMBS DISPERSE MOB

State Troopers In Pennsylvania Help
Subdue Strikers

PITTSBURGH, June 8.—Latent bitterness of the 1927 bituminous coal strike flared into open violence in Pennsylvania's impoverished soft coal field today in a welter of rioting, broken heads, threats and vandalism.

Suburban riots raged along a seventy-mile front at the break of dawn with strikers and state troopers seeking ascendancy. Reports filtering in from the bituminous coal fields indicated forty-five mounted and foot policemen had succeeded in quelling disturbances in which 2,000 miners participated.

A score of miners and a state trooper were clubbed during a riot near the Midland No. 3 mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company at Westland. Fifteen troopers were forced to fling tear gas bombs into the ranks of 700 marching strikers to disperse the miners.

Tear gas bombs and riot clubs were used freely when a ragged file of miners, armed with nondescript weapons—clubs, rocks and anything else handy—fought coal and iron police who had barricaded themselves behind a motor truck near Ellsworth.

The rioters were reported to have charged the police, numbering fifteen officers, four times each time retreating in disorder before the acrid fumes of the tear gas.

DAMAGE CAUSED AS STORMS SWEEP OHIO

COLUMBUS, O., June 8.—Considerable damage was reported today from violent rain, wind and lightning storms which swept the state over the week-end.

Trees were broken off and fields of wheat and other crops were flattened in several sections. Rail storms caused wide damage in parts of northern Ohio.

Fire departments were kept busy as lightning struck and fired many residences and structures. Two lightning-started fires in Cincinnati caused $70,000 damages.

Air traffic was seriously hampered by terrific 30-mile-an-hour winds in some sections.

Partly cloudy and warmer weather was forecast for today with clearing skies tomorrow.

The contest will include violinists to 25 years of age and Spaulding is sixteen years old. He recently won the state contest at Elsmarck and the interstate sectional contest at Duluth, Minn., which entitled him to a place in the finals. He has been awarded a place in the national high school orchestra for three years, playing at Dallas, Tex., and Chicago and in the summer camp at Interlochen, Mich., two years. Last summer he won the medal for second place in violin at Interlochen. He expects to enter Northwestern University this fall.

RECENT BRIDE IS HONORED SATURDAY

Miss Isabel Webster, Clifton, entertained a group of friends at a kitchen shower Saturday afternoon for Mrs. Robert D. Horney (Frank Estle), a recent bride. The affair was given at the country home of Mrs. J. Wallace Rife.

Twenty-five guests from Clifton, Springfield, Cedarville and Camden, O., were received by the hostess and her mother. Clever contests amused the guests and later gifts were presented the bride after she had consulted a map marking her honeymoon tour. Each destination revealed the hiding place of various gifts.

At the close of the afternoon a salad course was served.

CELEBRATE WEDDING ANNIVERSARY SUNDAY

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Conklin celebrated their twenty-fourth wedding anniversary Sunday and in honor of the occasion entertained a group of relatives at their home on Spring St. The affair was arranged as a surprise on Mr. Conklin. Forty guests enjoyed a picnic dinner at noon.

Mrs. Louis Hammerle, violinist, Miss Marjorie Street, pianist, this city and Mr. Alfred Hein, Dayton, cellist, were members of a trio which furnished music at graduation exercises at Cedarville College Friday morning.

Mr. Charles Evans, near Jamestown, is confined to his home because of illness and is reported to be in a serious condition.

The Service Sewing Circle of the Second U. P. Church will meet at the home of Mrs. H. B. McKelvie, W. Market St., Wednesday. A covered dish luncheon will be served at noon and each member is asked to bring a covered dish, table service and sewing.

Mr. D. S. Barker, who has been critically ill at his home near Jamestown, remains in about the same condition and little hope is held for his recovery.

The second meeting of the Girls Bible Hour will be held at the home of Mrs. John G. Eavey, Pleasant St., Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Eavey and the Rev. and Mrs. J. P. Lytle, this city, left Monday morning for Monmouth, Ill. Mr. Eavey and the Rev. Mr. Lytle are members of the senate of Monmouth College, which meets Tuesday.

In commenting on the refusal of the supreme court to permit his admission as a United States citizen because he refuses to make an unqualified promise to bear arms in event of war, Dr. Douglas Clyde MacIntosh, Yale, divinity professor, declares his position is "unaltered." He insisted before the court that he had the right to decide if war was morally justified.

TAN OUT OF STYLE

NEW YORK, June 8.—Because sun tan is no longer a vogue, 200,000 working days' loss due to illness from sunburn will be saved for industry, Dr. Charles F. Pabst said today. He estimated economic loss from sunburn at more than $1,400,000 a year in New York.

Dr. Pabst said in 1930 sunstroke caused more deaths in New York than those due to elevated car, subway, steam car and electric surface car accidents. He predicted a decided falling off this summer from last year's record of ninety sunstroke deaths.

PAST PRESIDENT OF LEGION AUXILIARY WILL APPEAR HERE

Appearance of Adalyn Wright Macauley, past president of the national American Legion auxiliary and past and honorary president of the Elmer Auxiliary, the only American woman who has ever headed this international allied organization, is expected to be one of the high spots on the 1931 program of the Redpath Chautauque in this city July 1-7.

Her visit to Xenia will be of especial interest to all American Legion and auxiliary members in this locality, the Chautauque management feels. Of perhaps equal interest will be the address of C. Ray Hansen, Chicago attorney, who will discuss "Government in Gangland," having derived his knowledge from personal experiences as a foe and victim of Chicago gangsters.

On the fifth afternoon a lecture by Charles H. Plattenburg, a life-long student of economical problems, on the subject "The Old Town in a New World," will be delivered.

The Metropolitan Singers, a Radanovitz organization, and the Philharmonic Ensemble, will be the two outstanding musical organizations of the week. Artist's Day will bring Anita Ball and her company, popular in the novelty field.

Chautauque patrons who annually look forward to a high standard in the Redpath play productions, apparently will not be disappointed. Four plays, one a musical offering, will be presented. "Broken Dishes," which recently closed a successful run at the Ritz Theater in New York City, will be the offering on the first night. "Her Husband's Wife," a three-act comedy, will be the attraction on the third night.

"Grumpy," with Joseph Gifford in the title role, is the third dramatic production. Junior Town will again be a Chautauque feature, and attractions of particular interest to the boys and girls will include Lura Forbes, Reno the magician, and a big pageant during the week.

New Serial Replete With Adventure And Mystery

By Central Press

A strange secret sends a mysterious young man to the far corners of the earth with only a lovely and brilliant young girl as his bodyguard. Four men follow his every move and hatch scheme after scheme to kill him, but always the girl is there to foil the plot.

The mysterious young man is Roy T. Burney, a young American millionaire, and the girl is Ann Carmichael, daughter of an English scientist, hero and heroine of Louise Gerard's novel, "The Mysterious Young Man," which starts serially in The Gazette Wednesday. But when a more capable young girl guards a man's life with her own and several times saves him from death is she not entitled to know the secret that rules the strange affairs of his life? Why should he implore her to love him and yet refuse her the secret of his devotion to a middle-aged countess?

Here is a story with an enthralling plot. Here is a magnificent romance linked with high-spirited adventure in far-away places. The understated love, the most loyal devotion—these are thwarted by black shadows of the past.

Louise Gerard has searched out a profound problem in the conflict between love and noble sacrifice. Her talent for showing hearts torn by jealousy and blind misfortune, and her ability to bring out the grandeur of an expiating death accomplish in this novel their finest effects in arousing readers to a tremendous experience.

"The Mysterious Young Man" takes rank with Miss Gerard's other successful novels, "A Son of the Sahara," "Bride of the Night," etc. The first installment appears for readers of The Gazette Wednesday.

COUPLE FACING CHARGES AFTER LIQUOR RAID LED BY SHERIFF

Arthur Soddors and his wife, Bella, living on the Dean farm on the Stringtown Road, five miles from Xenia, were jailed Monday awaiting hearings Tuesday morning in Probate Court. Mrs. Soddors on a charge of resisting an officer and her husband for possessing liquor.

The arrests followed a raid on the Soddors home Saturday night by Sheriff John Baughn and three deputies in which one raiding officer did not escape unscathed.

Authorities said that Soddors, found in possession of a quantity of home brew, attempted to destroy the evidence. He threw a jug out of a window and was about to dispose of a few pint bottles when Walton Spahr, chief deputy, sought to restrain him. Mrs. Soddors was reported to have rushed to the aid of her husband and struck the officer over the head with a skillet.

Meanwhile, Sheriff Baughn, finding the front door locked, found it necessary to force an entrance through the door. Soddors

HOUSE DESTROYED BY FIRE SATURDAY

A two-story brick house, owned and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hunter, colored, three and one-half miles west of Yellow Springs on the Enon Road, was destroyed by fire early Saturday afternoon. Interior of the house was destroyed and only the four brick walls were left standing.

It is thought the fire started from sparks from the flue. It was discovered by Mr. Hunter about 1 p. m. and he was able to remove part of the household furnishings assisted by neighbors. The loss is partly covered by insurance. Mr. and Mrs. Hunter had resided in the house since 1905.

MRS. MARY HARNER, OCTOGENARIAN, IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Mrs. Mary Campbell Harner, 85, widow of Samuel Harner, died at her home in Old Town Sunday morning at 8:15 o'clock. She had been confined to her bed two years following injuries received when she was knocked down by an automobile, when she suffered fractures of both legs and minor injuries. Immediate cause of death was a stroke of paralysis suffered Thursday morning.

Mrs. Harner was born in Bath, N. Y., July 5, 1845, the daughter of Joseph and Ursula Campbell. She had spent most of her life in Greene County with the exception of four years in Missouri. Her marriage to Mr. Harner took place March 14, 1865 and at the time of his death in 1926 they had been married sixty-one years. Mrs. Harner was formerly a member of the Reformed Church at Byron but transferred her membership to the M. E. Church, Old Town, when she moved to that village eight years ago.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Ada Swadener, Old Town. Besides her husband three sons preceded her in death and she was the last of her immediate family. Fifty grandchildren and sixteen great grandchildren also survive. Funeral services will be held at the Old Town M. E. Church Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and burial will be made in Woodland Cemetery.

The recognition services of the Rev. M. M. D. Perdue, recently called to the pastorate of the Zion Baptist Church, opened Sunday morning. Some weeks ago the executive board of the Sunday school planned to have some way by which the parents and friends of the children could look in on that group at work so the idea matured in the form of a Sunday school breakfast. Invitations were given each member some days previous so Sunday morning at 9:30 nearly 200 adults, boys and girls were in Sunday school. The dining room and also the Sunday school rooms were beautiful with cut flowers. The superintendent and officers and teachers served the breakfast of bacon, eggs, hot rolls and coffee. During the hour the following program was held: remarks by Superintendent James H. Peters, subject, "The Object of this Meeting—To Build," Miss L. J. Payne, "Forty Years as a Worker," George I. Gaines, "Twenty-seven years as an Executive Head." Brief remarks were made by the Rev. Curtis Greenfield of Payne Theological Seminary who, during his school work here has given splendid services as teacher of a young men's class. Rev. M. M. D. Perdue talked on the necessity of having an adult department. Prof. Grover Harden, superintendent of adult department spoke on, "What I Would Like to Have," remarks by Mrs. Perdue. Instrumental solo by Miss Willa Holmes. Mr. J. H. Peters is serving his fifth year as superintendent of the school. At the close of the Sunday school breakfast 10:45 a. m. the salutatory sermon was preached by the pastor the Rev. M. M. D. Perdue immediately following the ordinance of baptism. At 3 p. m. the Recognition services were held as follows: music, choir; Recognition Prayer, Rev. J. H. Peters; music, "Go Preach My Gospel"; Recognition sermon, the Rev. P. H. Hill pastor of the St. John's Baptist Church, Dayton, text—1st Cor. 1:18, subject, "Preaching of the Cross"; song, "A Charge to Keep I Have"; charge to the church was given by the Rev. G. A. Martin, pastor of Middletown Baptist Church; charge to the pastor, the Rev. F. L. Bray, pastor of Yellow Springs Church, "In All My Lord's Appointed Ways" was sung and the Rev. W. C. Allen, pastor of the Second Baptist Church, Washington C. H., presented the Bible which was accepted by Rev. Perdue. At 7:45 the sermon "An Ideal Congregation" was preached and the Lord's Supper administered. These services will continue closing Wednesday with a recognition banquet.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Behold, the Lord's hand is not shortened, that it cannot save; neither his ear heavy, that it cannot hear.—Isaiah, lix, 1.

CRYING BABIES

"An earthly power doth then show likest God's, when Mercy tempests justice." There is a novel kind of tempering in the court of Judge John P. Haas of Chicago. He conducts the Landlords and Tenants of the Municipal Court. One of the most frequent remarks from the bench is, "Another bottle of milk, please!"

The milk is for the babies. They come into the courtroom with their mothers, who in most cases have been evicted for not paying their rent. The mothers haven't paid their rent because they couldn't. For a closely connected reason, the babies are hungry. Wherefore they protest in the only way they know. The milk is provided partly to keep them from crying and interfering with court procedure, but also in plain human kindness. It would be quite possible, you know, to solve the courtroom problem by letting the babies cry out in the hall.

But this is an unpleasant topic. Let us drop it, in the hope that the court is also able to do something for the mothers.

SPANISH TITLES

The Spanish republic is becoming very republican. Its latest demonstration of civic equality is the stripping of titles from 2,600 nobles.

Thus 1,310 marquises, 900 counts, 145 viscounts, 148 barons and 97 dukes are reduced to the status of ordinary citizens. They must sign their simple family names to legal documents like the common herd. Special privileges and honors go by the board. They will be lucky if they keep their fortunes and fine homes.

It will go hard with them. Of all European nobilities, the Spanish is the proudest. The haughty dons will still be allowed, however, to use their titles in social life, as the French have continued doing since their revolution. That will help to soften the blow, especially among nobles traveling in America or seeking wives here. For matrimonial purposes, at least in this democratic land, an empty title is still good.

TO BE COMMENDED

Governors Ritchie and Pinchot, whatever one may think of some of their policies, are to be commended for breaking down the barrier erected to keep "controversial questions" off the agenda of the governors' conference at French Lick. They set an example in facing conditions that this country badly needs at this time.

A terror of constructive controversy seems suddenly to have seized our political parties, churches and economic leaders. They will walk around a dozen blocks to avoid meeting a "controversial question" face to face. What important issue is there before the country today that is not controversial to somebody?

A nation does not go ahead by stepping aside every time a controversial question crosses its path. Such questions are settled by men and women willing to step straight into them; and until they are settled they will continue to breed discontent and disunity of mind and purpose. Sidestepping is neither heroic nor constructive. The sooner we get that through the heads of our governors and legislatures and other responsible bodies the sooner shall we resume our interrupted march toward better things.

STUDY OF THE OTHER SEX

Fifty-eight seniors of Princeton college's graduating class, reported in a questionnaire the other day, that their favorite study was women. These student questionnaires should not be taken too seriously, but many students without question spend much of the time considering how they can conquer the opposite sex.

Also there are a host of girls who are "boy struck," and spend much of their time exchanging with each other their experiences with admirers or desired suitors.

All this sex attraction is an inevitable part of life. But it gets far too much of a grip on some. The business men are looking for helpers who understand about industry and trade, not for those who are noted for their sentimental conquests.

That balloon hop to the stratosphere by Prof. Auguste Piccard was a great sporting feat. As for the scientific results, we may have to wait until the professor signs a vaudeville contract.

It looks as if most of the people who were gambling in common stocks two years ago, and have anything left, have now turned to lotteries and horse races.

Somewhat it's hard to sympathize with the song-writer who asks $35,000 from a sign company because a can of gasoline fell on his head and he is no longer able to write songs. Still, if the money will keep him from trying, let him have it.

Treat children like grown-ups and grown-ups like children, advises a physician. Meaning, be kind to grown-ups?

The spectacle of a 70-year-old ex-cabinet member avoiding jail only because he is seriously ill is not pleasant, but it may be helpful. Young men sometimes run foul of the law because of lack of experience—and have to take the consequences. A man of Albert B. Fall's age and experience knew what he was doing and the risk he was running when he betrayed the trust reposed in him.

TALK YOURSELF OUT OF MONEY

Mark Twain went to church one Sunday and heard a missionary talk.

In his report of the address he lays convincing emphasis on the importance of knowing when to stop. "He was the most eloquent orator I ever listened to," writes Mark Twain. "He painted the benighted condition of the heathen so clearly that my deepest passion was aroused. I resolved to break a life-long habit and contribute a dollar to teach the gospel to my benighted brethren. As the speaker proceeded, I decided to make it five dollars, and then ten.

Finally I knew it to be my duty to give to the cause all the cash I had with me—twenty dollars. The pleading of the orator wrought upon me still further and I decided not only to give all the cash I had with me, but to borrow twenty dollars from my friend who sat at my side. That was the time to take up the collection.

However, the speaker proceeded and I finally dropped asleep. When the usher awoke me with the collection plate, I not only refused to contribute, but am ashamed to say that I actually stole fifteen cents! —Exchange.

Bo-Broadway

NEW YORK.—Calvin Coolidge, writing six short editorials a week, receives $2 a word for what he writes. His contract calls for not less than 200 words daily. Newspaper men have checked up on the ex-President and find he has written an average of 195 words daily.

UNSUNG ARTISTS

There are at least 1,000 window trimmers in New York, their territory covering probably 4,000 windows.

Every Wednesday and Saturday night this army goes to work in at least 50 department stores. The window trimmer is a display manager, a decorator, a highly trained artist whose salary, as a usual thing, is commensurate with his ability. Nevertheless, he remains one of the obscure thousands, one of the least appreciated producers of effects.

Adding a window display who ever thinks of the man who conceived it? Some day store proprietors will permit these artists to "sign" their work, as do painters and sculptors.

CLOTHES AND THE WOMAN

Every woman is an actress. It was an American girl who taught that to C. Bosseron Chambers, noted portrait painter and America's best known authority on religious paintings. He has succeeded in getting one of two very good pictures of the girl he speaks of. She had excellent features and would have made a good model, except that she seemed totally lacking in imagination. She had no dramatic sense. When told to take the pose of a Spanish dancing girl there was no vivacity in her expression—merely a self-conscious smirk. The same thing happened at all Chambers' suggestions. He finally gave up trying to kindle the necessary spark and turned elsewhere for a model.

But the girl was really lovely and the artist hated to acknowledge defeat. He decided to try once again. "One morning I determined to paint a Madonna," he recalled. "The model, with her unexpressive eyes and languorous slouch, was all wrong. Fully expecting failure I handed her the original vestments to do, while I prepared my easel and brushes.

"When I looked up she was seated in the model chair, with a positively soulful peace in her formerly vivacious eyes. The change startled me and I asked her if, by any chance, she was of a religious turn of mind. She said no, but that she'd always had a secret desire to wear clothes like those just to see how she felt."

PROVEN

Generations of jurors have failed. American jurisprudence has last discovered a method for ascertaining when a man is drunk. A judge was confronted by three defendants accused of having been drunk the night before. Policemen testifying that the men had been making night hideous by foregathering on a street corner and attempting "close harmony."

"That doesn't prove a charge of intoxication," said His Honor. Then, turning to the defendants, he inquired:

"What were you singing, boys?" "Sweet Adeline," they replied. "Ten dollars each," he said. "Next case."

TRUTH IS STRANGER THAN FICTION!

PROHIBITION BECOMES SECONDARY ISSUE NOW IN NATIONAL CAMPAIGN

—CHARLES P. STEWART—

WASHINGTON.—Prohibition finally is definitely settling itself down into a status secondary to economics as a 1932 national issue; there can be no doubt about it.

This does not mean that the wet-and-dry question will not figure importantly in next year's politics, but it will not be on top.

Times may improve between now and the two big party presidential conventions. Indeed, the signs are that they will. There is beginning to be a subtle something in the atmosphere which suggests a slight improvement already. Nevertheless, men's minds will still be full of their sufferings and anxieties since the smash in October, 1929. Their uppermost thoughts will be of means to safeguard themselves, if possible, against the repetition of such an experience.

The economic problem, then, inclusive of details such as tariff rates, income taxation, farm relief and unemployment insurance, surely will take precedence over everything else in the 1932 campaign.

Prohibition will be secondary. It may not even be a very close second, but it will be a long distance ahead of the rest of the field.

To some extent it is of especial consequence for the very reason that the economic question looms as formidable as it does.

That is to say, prohibition may be the deciding factor in normally one-sided elections which have been rendered politically unstable by the prolonged industrial depression.

This is notably true in the northeast, ordinarily so dependably Republican an area that the G. O. P. management, waging a dry fight as it generally is assumed it will be placed in the position of having to do next year, could afford to disregard a certain amount of wet flopping to the rival ticket if a record of unbroken prosperity could be pointed to, in order to hold the bulk of the faithful together. The coming election, however, is not looked forward to as one at which any defections whatever can be regarded indifferently.

In connection with the situation in the north and east, where electoral votes are most numerous, Republican leaders are not comforted to note that dry Democrats seem moderately reconciled at least more nearly so than in 1928) to the selection of a wetish candidate as their own party's standard bearer.

The truth is, in so far as prohibition is concerned, the G. O. P. appears to be worse split than the Jeffersonians.

A state of affairs in which the Democrats bid fair to succeed in maintaining their dry southern solidarity, while simultaneously making a formidable bid for the unquestionably heavy wet votes of New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Ohio and Illinois, presents disadvantages from a Republican standpoint, too manifest to require demonstration.

The effect of the lineup promises to be very distinctly wet-versus-dry—though, of course, there are many drys on the wet Democratic and many wets on the dry Republican side.

This wet-versus-dry lineup will be, however, largely an accidental result of the economic alignment.

The Democrats, being the "outs" naturally are beneficiaries of the embarrassment of the Republicans, as the "ins" during a period of business distress.

But for the fact that they have the economic issue to combine on the Democrats probably never would have been able to subordinate the liquor issue within their own organization. That it happened to be subordinated wetly rather than dryly is perhaps partly due to the fact that the present G. O. P. administration is on the dry side; partly to the fact that the northern Democracy would have accepted no other condition for the liquor issue within their own ranks.

The automatic consequence of the Democratic combination was to push all irreconcilable drys over to the G. O. P. The G. O. P. doubtless was glad to get them, but for all that, they make a practice tically impossible contingent to consolidate with wet Republicanism.

These meals may be reversed and the luncheon be served for supper, or maybe, with the addition of orange juice, cereal and coffee, used for a breakfast menu.

Today's Recipes

Bran Waffles—One and one-half cups flour, one teaspoon salt, one and one-half tablespoons sugar, four teaspoons baking powder, three-fourths cup bran, two eggs, one and one-fourth cups milk, four tablespoons melted shortening. Sift the flour, salt, sugar and baking powder together; add the bran, the well-beaten eggs, milk, melted shortening. Beat well. Bake in hot waffle iron. Yield, 5 waffles.

Cheese Souffle—One-fourth cup butter, three tablespoons flour, one cup milk, one cup grated American cheese, three eggs, one-half teaspoon salt, paprika, one tablespoon onion juice. Prepare a cream sauce with butter, flour and milk. Cook this mixture until thick, then add the cheese and stir until melted. Add yolks of eggs, one-half teaspoon salt, paprika, to taste and one teaspoon onion juice. Mix carefully and fold in stiffly-beaten egg whites. Turn into a greased baking dish and set in a pan of water in a moderate oven. Bake until firm.

Reinforcing Shoes

To reinforce worn soles of shoes, when soles of your shoes are worn thin and you do not wish to have them resoled, try this: From a roll of three-fourths-inch vulcanized tape cut strips long enough to cover thin part of sole. Lift up the inner lining of the sole, apply strips of tape, overlapping about one-fourth inch, until the sole is covered, being very careful to apply as smoothly as possible. Apply another layer crosswise and, if needed, even a third layer can be applied. Turn back your lining and your shoe is ready for more hard wear, entirely waterproof and will wear as long as the uppers will last. It seems the natural heat of the foot welds the tape with the leather of the sole. Try it and be convinced.

LOCATING THE PLANETS FOR JUNE

Mercury passes superior conjunction (far side of sun) June 29, becoming evening star; will be in conjunction with moon June 14, and moon will be new the 15th. Venus is still a white dazzling star in the east, seen before sunrise; is in conjunction with the moon June 14. Mars is in constellation Cancer. It passed eastern quadrature May 2 and is rapidly moving eastward, receding from the earth rapidly. It is in conjunction with the moon June 21. Jupiter is in Gemini and is seen in the western sky during the early evening hours. Saturn is seen in Sagittarius. Uranus and Neptune—telescopic objects—are found in Pices, and in Leo in conjunction with Mars the 16th, respectively.

No Normal Diet, Avers Doctor

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

There is no such thing as a normal diet, in the strict sense of the term. That is to say, there is no diet that everyone is agreed upon, which must be followed in order to be healthy. Certain things must be present in any diet that is healthy, but the proportion of different foods must vary in two different diets quite widely and still the two people eating them be healthy.

How close do average families, eating whatever comes along day after day, come to the ideal mathematical requirements of a normal diet? The question has been the subject of an investigation by the James Mackenzie Institute in Scotland.

Dr. James Mackenzie, perhaps the greatest clinical physician of the last generation, founded an institution in St. Andrews, Scotland, before his death for the study of the early stages of disease, a field which he considered was much neglected.

Studying the diet of 154 families it was found that on the average they were all eating less protein and less starch than they should, and more fat. The exact figures are as follows:

Percentage of Total Calories	Carbo-	Protein	Hydrate	Fat
Ideal Standard	17	67	16
Actual, as eaten	11	54	35

There is no reason to suppose that these figures would be any different if any average group of American families were studied. A strange finding was that the total number of calories consumed per person per day on the average was 3,100 for manual laborers, and 3,300 a day for those in sedentary occupations. It is recognized that those with sedentary occupations expend much energy on outdoor games and exercising, but it hardly seems possible they would need as much as a manual laborer. Can it be that the fellow playing golf is really using up as much energy as his friend wielding a pick? Or can it be that the fellow with the pick rests more than he seems to do?

Nutrition experts say that if more food is eaten than actual requirements call for and is not stored in the form of extra body weight, it goes into luxury consumption or secondary dynamic action.

The quality of food, even more than the quantity, varies with the family's income. With a rising income there is a tendency to spend more on foods rich in protein, such as butcher meat, and also to replace the starch in the food by fat. Miners, it was found, with their higher wages, consume more fat than agricultural laborers. There was, especially in Germany, a compulsory decline in the consumption of fat during the war. And at this time there was a sharp increase in the percentage of tuberculosis. It is probable that the high incidence of tuberculosis among the poorer classes is partly related to the low amount of fat in their diet. The same thing applies to the well-to-do who deliberately starve themselves for the sake of style, or vanity.

Too Bad Like Doesn't Beget Like

—By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE—

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I have to court you. As long as he and his wife live together your reputation will suffer if you are seen with him.

If his wife mistreats the children it is a further reason for him to leave her and marry a woman who would be good to them. But, for your part, be very, very sure that you love him as a wife should, and that you can be a good mother to the children. If they are badly off now with their own mother, they would be worse off with a step-mother who did not love them. poor little things!

AN UNDECIDED WIFE: Don't you suppose one reason that your husband is irritable is that he is not working? It is very hard on an amiable man to be out of work, and it is quite apt to make even that type unreasonable. So it would have a worse effect on a cross one who takes to drink to drown his feelings.

It is a shame that he treats you so, as you are doing a fine thing working outside your home to help out. Try to be patient with him until he gets work, and then if he doesn't reform and treat you kindly, you should take steps to make him behave. There is no excuse for a man slapping his wife, and if he doesn't stop it of his own accord, the law must make him.

HEART-BROKEN KID: Your letter was entirely too long to print, as you asked. I think the wisest thing for you to do is to get out with young people your own age, and, if possible, forget this married man.

Of course it may all be true that his wife doesn't love him and wants to get rid of him and the children, as she says. But it doesn't sound natural.

The thing for them to do is to separate if they feel as they say they do, and then he will be free.

Although quite a number of men write to me about their various problems, their letters always sound so apologetic—as if, somehow, they were ashamed of themselves for taking an interest in their appearance. And why any man should think it a disgrace to wish to improve himself is beyond my comprehension. For it emphatically isn't! Look at Lou Telegen, once the perfect matinee idol, who is now planning to stage a big comeback via the screen. Lou has just had his face beautifully lifted—and he doesn't care who knows it! It improved his appearance, and that's really all that matters to him.

The shamefaced feeling that so many men experience may have some bearing on the fact that men are generally far more careless about themselves than are women. Many of them do not realize just how often the much-advertised "body odor" makes their presence uncomfortable to women. And because men's labors are ordinarily so much more strenuous, their clothes so much heavier, and their eating so much heartier than women's, they are much likelier to be afflicted with this unpleasant condition.

Men's garb, in my opinion, is responsible for a great deal of their carelessness about themselves. The majority of men cannot afford the number of suits that a man should have to be immaculately groomed. Even with a plentiful supply of shirts, ties, collars and socks, it can't be pleasant to don the same suit day after day. Imagine a woman, an trying to get along with two, and sometimes only one, costume during an entire season!

Eventually some sort of improvement will be made in men's apparel, that will deliver them from their present period of suffocation. But until that time, all men should be particularly careful to guard themselves against body odor, especially if they are afflicted with excessive

Freckles

Max C.: The lemon juice or peroxide should be allowed to dry on the skin after it is applied. Then a bit of cold cream should be used to contract any drying effects. To prevent wrinkles, the skin must be protected from the sun. A coating of cold cream and powder will help.

Colors

Billie Jane: I think that you will find shades of tan, brown, burnt orange, dark reds, gray and green most becoming. You may wear off the face hats, and hats with small, lifted brims.

Nail-Biting

Mrs. E. C.: Tincture of aloes applied to the fingertips will help to break you of the nail-biting habit. The packs you mention are of equal merit. The egg white is first beaten until stiff, and then applied to the face and neck.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

Origin of softball in Xenia is still as deep a mystery as ever and many persons, including this department, would appreciate enlightenment on the subject.

It goes without saying that Kiwanians and Rotarians staged the first games played here, but the identity of the person or persons who got the two civic clubs interested in the sport less than a decade ago, eludes the memory of everyone, it appears.

Possibly the sponsor was Dick Nisbet, former Xenia Boy Scout Executive, who used to pitch on one of the two teams. Dick could probably shed light on the question.

It also develops that we had a mental collapse in a previous article and failed to give credit to the proper party for getting the sport organized here on a league basis.

Having had our memory jogged a trifle, a great light dawned and it all became clear that no less a personage than "Hy" Hyman, the arch-villain of the last Theater Guild show, was responsible more than any other individual for developing a community interest in the game.

Five or six years ago Hy was umpiring a Rotary-Kiwanis game, and after taking a mental note of ability of the two teams, became convinced that he could get together a team that would give either club a trimming.

Furthermore, he put the idea into execution and organized the team which later became known as the Junior Business Men. Hy couldn't get a game, however, with the Kiwanis or Rotary, both teams advising him to go out and get a reputation first. So when the Boy Scouts also organized a softball nine and the high school did likewise, the J. B. M. played a series of games with these teams.

But Hy looked into the future and conceived the plan of organizing a regular league. He called a meeting and an invitation was broadcast over the city for other teams to be organized and enrolled. The response was instantaneous, as by this time, softball teams were springing up almost overnight. Thus the Xenia Playground League came into being in 1927 and functioned with ten teams in the fold.

Two years later, in 1929, Hy again had a happy thought and came forward with the suggestion that softball teams should form a permanent organization. He went so far as to draw up a tentative constitution, which was adopted with only minor revisions when representatives of teams in the field in 1929, met in the spring of 1929.

The Xenia Playground Association was chosen as the name of the organization and Fred Baldwin, Ohmer Tate and Earl Boxwell, enthusiastic followers of the sport, were elected officers. These three officers also constituted what was known as a Softball Commission, empowered to have full sway over the games played at Cox Field.

Boxie has served as secretary-treasurer of the association for the last three years, while Walker Gibney has been president and Paul Turnbull vice-president for the last two years.

The three commissioners, particularly Boxie, do all the work and the players and fans have the fun. The commissioners draw up the schedules, do most of the umpiring, raise most of the money to make ends meet every year and are responsible for keeping the diamond and field in shape and making improvements from time to time. It's a great life if the commissioners don't weaken.

SOFTBALL LOOP STANDINGS

You couldn't ask for better races than are being staged in the National and American softball leagues this season.

The Lang Chevrolet have a margin of only half a game over the Downtown Country Club in the National circuit, and Krippendorf is ahead of Central High by only one full game in the American group.

You may not believe it, but no double-headers are on this week's softball menu.

In the National League, the Red Wings will meet Wood's Barbours Monday night, the Downtowners will play the Graham Paints Wednesday night and Langs will face the Criterion Friday night.

In the event American League teams adhere to their schedule for a change this week, Central High will engage the All-Stars Tuesday night and Krippendorf will face St. Bridg Thursday evening. League standings:

LIBRARY GETS LIFE OF POET

Daughter Of Coates Kinney, Famed Xenian
Makes Gift Of Book

A copy of the "Interpretation of the Life and Poetry of Coates Kinney" by Debora MacNeilan has been presented to the Greene County Library by the daughter of the poet Mrs. Lawrence Shields. This critical estimate of one of America's greatest poets has just been published by the Ohio State Archaeological and Historical Society as one means of paving the way to a broader knowledge and deeper appreciation of the later nineteenth century poet of Cincinnati and the Middle West.

This interpretive biography of Kinney, soldier, poet, editor and lawyer, was written by Miss MacNeilan as her thesis for a Master of Arts degree, which was awarded her at Ohio State University last August. Miss MacNeilan presents Kinney as "representative of a group of Ohio poets whose poetry is national in its scope and influence." To the author he "had the poets' all-seeing eye, for beyond the appearance of things he saw the reality," and he chose immorality as the theme of his life which was "a life of thinking, a life in the direction of truth." "Because of his great theme death," she wrote, "his poetry has a melancholy tone which is kept sweet by the voice of hope singing throughout, now faintly, now triumphantly."

But the future is not far off when men will realize the greatness of Coates Kinney. Now he belongs to Ohio, but ultimately he will belong to the world for all time.

Throughout the book, the author brings in the various works of Kinney as they apply to the high points in his life.

Among them is Kinney's popular lyric, "Rain on the Roof," which brought him fame in 1849. "The poem," to quote Miss MacNeilan, "touched the heartstrings of America; in fact it vibrated so perfectly with the homely experience of all that it soon became the property of all."

"Kappisima" she rated as Kinney's masterpiece. In this poem as well as "Pessim and Optim" and "A Keen Swift Spirit," Miss MacNeilan found Kinney "reasons his problem in terms of evolutionary pantheism."

Among other poems cited by Miss MacNeilan are "Emma Stuart," a lyric on a disappointed love; "The Thought and the Word," "Baby Fanny," which tells of the death of a daughter; "Keeuka," an Indian legend; "Consummation," which describes his romance with Mary Catherine Allen of Xenia, whom he married in 1852; "To an Appletree," "Child Lost," "The American Citizen," "The Wood-bird."

One of the many interesting points of Kinney's life as retold in Miss MacNeilan's book, is the extemporaneous welcoming address he made on behalf of Xenia citizens to General Grant, in 1879, when the Civil War general was touring the United States. The poet was also chosen to compose and deliver an ode at the Ohio Centennial celebration in Columbus September 4, 1888, in celebration of Ohio's progress, and which Miss MacNeilan declares, "distinguishes him as a leading citizen and poet of the state." This ode has been declared by critics to be one of the finest pieces of occasional verse ever written by an American poet.

Much of the information about Mr. Kinney's life was obtained, the author declares, from Emmerson Venable, literary executor and friend, William Henry Venable, father of Emmerson Venable, and Mr. Kinney were close friends.

The Greene County District Library announces the addition of this book to its shelves with much pleasure as it is felt that this study of Mr. Kinney will be of interest to many Greene County residents.

FILE ANOTHER SUIT IN SCHOOL FIGHT

Three members and the clerk of the Xenia Twp. board of education and The Fidelity and Deposit Co. Maryland, bonding company for R. E. Bryson, clerk-treasurer of the board, are named defendants in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court by five persons representing themselves as taxpayers of the Xenia Twp. school district, alleging the school board owes the school district $1,127.52.

Charging that Samuel D. Andrews is serving illegally as a board member and that bills paid by the board out of the treasury were paid illegally at various board meetings when there was not present a quorum of members, the plaintiffs claim the amount sought to be recovered represents payments unlawfully made.

Mrs. E. M. Anderson, wife of Horace Anderson, a board member, J. T. Anderson, Ralph DeVoe, C. S. McCoy and James Hubbard, are plaintiffs in the action, and F. A. Wolf, R. H. Murry, S. D. Andrews, board members, and R. E. Bryson, clerk-treasurer, are defendants.

THREE PAROLED

Three Xenia youths who pleaded guilty Saturday to burglary and larceny charges were placed on probation for five years by Judge Robert C. Patterson in Dayton, and were ordered to remain out of Montgomery County during the terms of their probation. Harold Jenks, Dwight Bennington and Russell Barr were the youths paroled.

MERCHANTS IDLE BECAUSE OF RAIN

Up to his old tricks, the weather man kept the Xenia Merchants idle Sunday afternoon by providing thundershowers. The Merchants had hoped to play a game with the Dayton Racers, a colored nine, at Washington Park, but the grounds became so wet that it was out of the question to stage the contest. An opponent for the Xenia nine next Sunday has not yet been booked by Manager Jess Chambliss.

LANGS BOOK GAME

The Lang Chevrolet Co., softball team, 1930 city champions and present leader of the National League, will seek to assert its authority in a neighboring city Tuesday night, playing an inner-city game with the strong William A. Shroyer and Sons team of Dayton. The contest will be staged on the No. 5 diamond at McCook Field and Manager Bill Baxley requests all members of the squad to report at the Lang Chevrolet Co. sales room at 5:45 o'clock.

GAME POSTPONED

Wet grounds caused postponement of a scheduled game between the Xenia and Troy junior American Legion baseball teams Sunday afternoon on the Kikare Park diamond. The game will be staged at the park next Sunday afternoon, it has been decided.

Are You Sure Those Electric Appliances Won't Work?

Many homes have one or more electric appliances stored away. They failed to function properly and were laid aside as useless.

Have you some such appliances in your home? Are you sure they won't work? The Service Department of The Dayton Power and Light Company will examine them free of charge ...and put them in first class shape if they are not hopelessly beyond repair.

We feel that a part of our duty to you demands that we make it possible for you to enjoy the services of electric appliances. That is why we maintain this minor repair department. XENIA CHOIR HEARD SUNDAY IN DAYTON AT GUILD MEETING

The choir of the First United Presbyterian Church, this city, of which Miss Mary Keeley is director, took part in a program presented at a meeting of the Mid-Western Conductors' Guild at Runnymede Playhouse, Dayton, Sunday afternoon and evening. The Guild is one of several like associations throughout the country which has its members graduates of the Westminster Choir School, Ithaca, N. Y. Miss Keeley is a graduate of this school.

During the afternoon numbers were presented by choirs from Dayton, Richmond, Ind., Springfield, Columbus, Indianapolis, Ind., Sidney, Tippecanoe City, West Alexandria, Miamisburg and Xenia. The Xenia choir sang "Seek Ye Jehovah," a composition by Mrs. W. J. Cherry, this city. The choir will sing this number at union services of churches of the city at the First U. P. Church Sunday evening.

Sunday evening the combined choirs, under the direction of Dr. John Finley Williamson, presented a program and an address was given by Dr. Marshall Harrington, pastor of Central Presbyterian Church, Dayton, on "The Fellowship of Worship." Mrs. H. E. Talbot, who has been actively interested in Westminster Choir and the choir school also spoke Sunday evening.

COUNTY 4-H CLUB NEWS

GIRLS' CLUB MEETS

Catherine Shane was elected president of the Girls' 4-H Club of New Jasper Twp. at a meeting held recently at the home of the advisor, Mrs. Cora Bootes. Other officers elected were Jane Hook, vice president; Charlotte Bootes, secretary-treasurer; Jeanette Bootes, recreation leader. The girls will take up the canning project this season and any girls interested in the subject are invited to join the club. The next meeting will be held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Bootes.

CHEERFUL CHERUBS MEET

The Cheerful Cherubs of Spring Valley held their second meeting of the season Thursday afternoon. During the business session it was decided that a committee be appointed to draw up a constitution for the club. Reports were heard on projects and later games were played. Miss Ruth Radford, home demonstration agent, was a guest at the meeting and gave a short talk.

JEFFERSON CLUB MEETS

The Jefferson Twp. N. G. Girls held their second meeting at Jefferson Twp. School Thursday afternoon. Preceding the meeting a luncheon was served and members of the sewing club and members of the club. The next meeting will be held at the school Friday afternoon.

HIS MAGIC FAIR

PARIS—"If I can pick an egg out of an empty hat I can pluck a few bills from a large roll," thought Samson Nissam, magician, returning from an American tour. So he went to work every morning at eight o'clock in the most crowded subway station he could pick. Pickings were good. But when he tried to pinch the roll of an inspector of the judiciary police, the cop pinched him. Now he languishes in jail trying to pick the lock.

GROCERIES STOLEN AT STORE SATURDAY

Assorted merchandise was stolen by thieves who ransacked the Chambliss Bros. and Son grocery, W. Second St., sometime Saturday night. Police recovered a part of the loot Sunday night, although the investigation has not progressed to a point where arrests have been made.

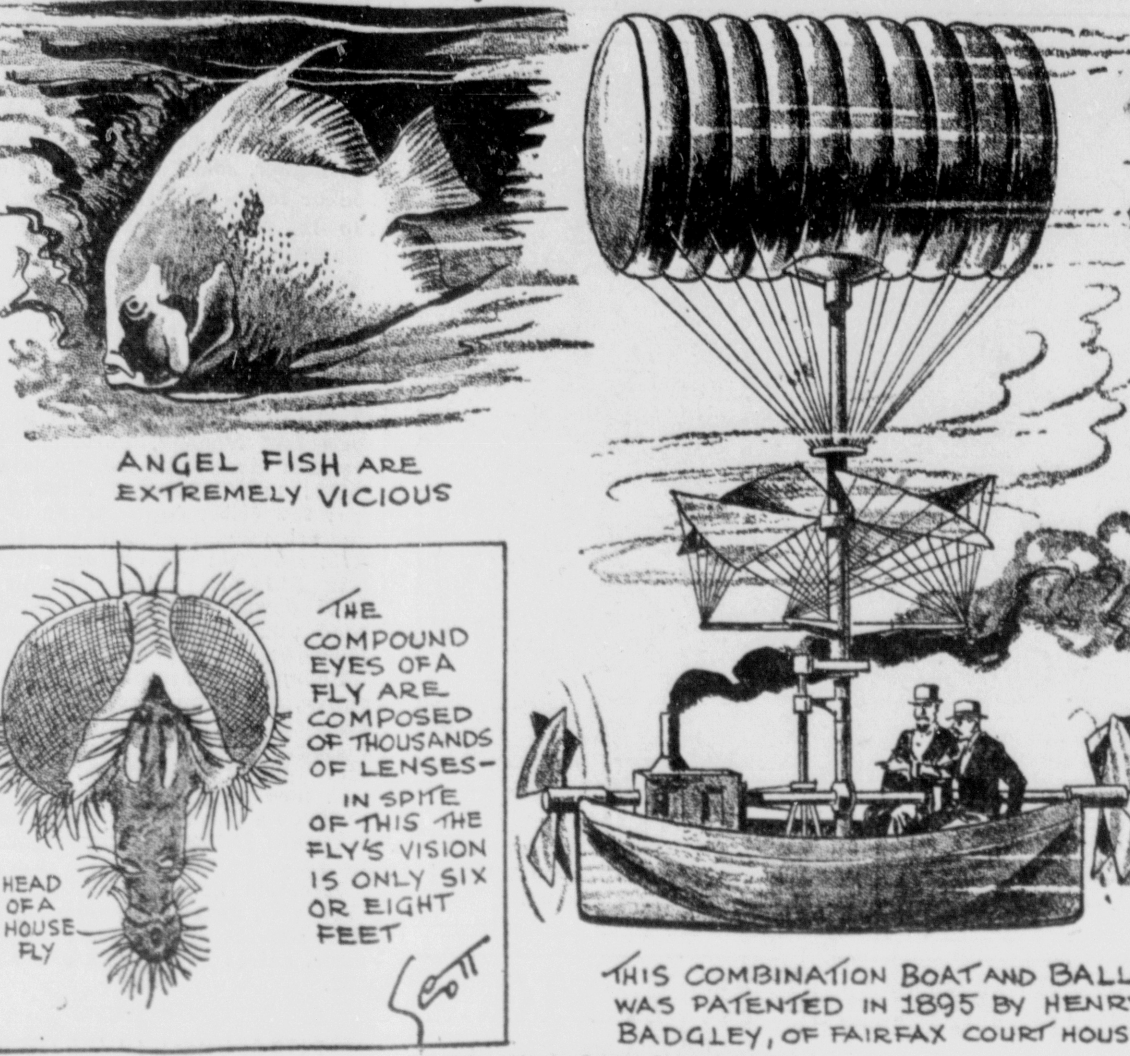

The loot included 100 small cakes, two pounds of tobacco, ten pounds of cheese, two dozen doughnuts, a box of chewing gum, half a dozen boxes of five-cent candy, three ties, an angel food cake, a quantity of bread and some canned goods.

The intruders broke a front window to gain entrance.

Police found a portion of the stolen groceries in an old camp car along the railroad near Cincinnati Ave. Sunday night.

LOVE, PREFERRED

By EDNA ROBB WEBSTER

Author of "Dad's Girl," "Joretta," Etc.

Mary could have shouted for joy, right there in the pretentious lobby of the hotel. She looked about her, gaily, half wondering whether she had made an articulate sound. Then she turned to the paper again to verify what her eyes had glimpsed before. Could it be true? Yes, it was still there—Wellmade Products was quoted at 5 1/2, with an active market. The day had been a good one for the general market, too. Would she return at once to New York? Not even an airplane could take her there too fast.

She took the night train, and went directly to the office from the station. Foster was there, radiant and voluble. His greeting was affectionate and respectful.

"Well, little partner, you are the heroine of the hour. I wish I might decorate you for valor at a public ceremony, but that would never do. No one must ever know how near this firm came to failure, except you and I. Did you have a nice trip?"

"Lovely! But the nicest part is getting home again. Have you seen Dick this week?"

He smiled at her serious concern.

"Oh, yes, he was in several times, hoping to find you were back. I suppose he had a busy day yesterday and he was jubilant over the turn of the tide. I believe he bought some of that last big issue that almost ruined so many of us."

"Yes, and more than he could risk. I am so glad for him!"

"Frazier has been waiting for you, too. I feel sorry for the fellow, Mary. He would rather have you than the money he gave you, I can see that."

"I know, and I'm sorry for him, too. Even for your sake and all the rest, I never could have held out this hope to him, if I had not been helping him at the same time. How soon will it be possible for me to repay him?"

"Today, if you wish. This turn in the market and the rise in stocks did for us just what I thought it would. I've had my lesson, and it won't happen again, unless everything falls. I feel like a new man, Mary, and you are the one who saved me. I shall not forget that."

"I am just happy to have been of any help. If only I did have to let poor Martin down, everything would be lovely."

"Poor Martin! Fancy Martin Frazier being poor! And he will be, at that, if he has to lose you, wanting you as he does. Funny old world," he sighed.

"It hasn't been very funny for me these few years. Rather, quite serious," Mary said thoughtfully. Then added, "But I wouldn't have missed a minute of it. I know now, why people who struggle with problems are the big and wise and happy people. You feel just that way every time you conquer a trouble or solve a problem—bigger and wiser and happier."

Former Xenian To Direct Chorus On Radio Tuesday

By MILDRED MASON

BROADCAST of the graduation exercises of Mechanics' Institute, Rochester, N. Y., Tuesday will be of special significance to Xenians as J. Alfred Casad, former Xenian, will direct a chorus of 180 voices that will sing on the commencement program. Casad spent his early life in this city and is a graduate of Central High School.

The exercises will be broadcast over an NBC network through stations associated with station WJZ, New York, between 10:45 and 11:30 a. m. It has not been announced if it will be heard over any Cincinnati station. Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war in the Wilson cabinet, will deliver the graduation address. His talk will be on "Adult Education."

Awarding of degrees to graduating students will follow.

Internationalists On Air

George Theunis, former Prime Minister of Belgium; James W. Gerard, former American ambassador to Germany, and other prominent internationalists will discuss "Commercial Relations with Soviet Russia" at the National Civic Federation luncheon Tuesday. Proceedings of the luncheon will be broadcast over an NBC-WEAF network from 12 to 12:30 p. m. Theunis is a former president of the International Chamber of Commerce.

The Theater

Officers of the Xenia Little Theater Guild for the coming year will be elected at the annual dinner meeting of the organization Friday evening in the dining room at Central High School.

Mrs. James Wilson III is arranging a one-act play for entertainment that evening, using an opus of Barrie that the great playwright never finished. He is said to have resisted all efforts to learn what his intentions were about ending the piece.

The campaign for members for next year was launched at the final Guild play of the season, "East Lynne," by Fred Flynn, president, who urged patrons to fill out blanks passed to the audience on entering.

Tom Hefflin and a granddaughter of a former U. S. senator. She was a schoolmate at an eastern boarding school of Mrs. S. N. McClellan, Xenia. The story is by Donald Ogden Stewart and the cast includes Olive Brook, Phoebe Foster, Alexander Kirkland, Osgood Perkins and Elizabeth Patterson.

Edward G. Robinson, the actor who made all other gangster characters fade into insignificance, is at the Bijou Friday and Saturday in the name part of "Little Caesar," the role that gave him his reputation. The film is touted as the cream of all films about the baddies. Robinson is supported by Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Glenda Farrell, Sidney Blackmer, Thomas Jackson, Ralph Ince, William Collier Jr., Maurice Black, Stanley Fields and George E. Stone. Glenda is a stage importation, in case you didn't know.

Twenty Years '11- Ago -'31

Lewis Anderson, member of a Xenia team of marksmen, hit forty-eight out of a possible fifty birds and was high man at a shoot on the Dayton N. C. R. Gun Club's grounds.

Arthur M. Schlesinger arrived home from Columbia University, where he has completed his first year as a student.

The Central Union Telephone Co. is now engaged in running a direct line between Xenia and Wilmington.

Mr. John Vanderpool left for California, where he will visit relatives for several weeks in Los Angeles.

the theater. The blanks enable the prospective member to signify his interest in working for the Guild in the capacity of actor, player of small parts, scenery designer, stage manager, carpenter, painter of scenery, electrician, costumer, prompter, make up artist, publicity writer, usher, ticket seller, executive or committee worker, musician or assistant in any of these classifications. Season tickets are $2.50 and it is believed the decision to open the final play to the public this year helped to further popularize the Guild and may aid greatly in bringing about an increased membership.

It was at natural as night following day that the success of Faith Baldwin's novel, "Office Wife" and the subsequent screen play of the same name featuring Dorothy Mackall, should be the signal for other plays of a similar theme. Such as one is "Behind Office Doors" which makes its last appearance at the Bijou Theater Monday night after opening there Sunday. The picture features Mary Astor, Robert Ames, Ricardo Cortez, Catherine Dale Owen and others.

Xenians will get their first opportunity to see Sylvia Sydney, the girl who replaced Clara Bow on the Paramount lot, in "City Streets" at the Bijou Tuesday and Wednesday. She plays opposite Gary Cooper in the first role he has had for three years in which he wears civilian clothes. The Bow was originally cast for the part. The story is another gangster version and the cast includes Paul Lukas, William Boyd, Guy Kibbee, Stanley Fields, Wynne Gibson and Betty Sinclair.

"Tarnished Lady" at the Bijou Thursday will be Tallulah Bankhead's debut in Xenia. The Alabama beauty who smote them dumb in London for seven years is a native of Huntsville. Alas, a daughter of Congressman William B. Bankhead, a niece of Senator-elect John H. Bankhead (who beat

W. I. Johnson, 517 Ohio St., Dayton, was elected president of the Third Ohio Volunteer Infantry Association of Spanish-American War veterans at the annual meeting at the O. S. and S. O. Home here Sunday afternoon.

He succeeds Col. W. T. Amos, member of the Home trust board, who served as president for the last year. Lieut. Fay

Georgetown, battalion adjutant of the old Third Ohio, was elected vice president.

Each company in the association has its own secretary and all were re-elected. Three hundred and forty members attended the meeting, dining at the Home at 1 o'clock and attending a program in the school auditorium later. Addresses were made by General George H. Woods, Dayton, former governor of national military homes; Clarence M. Brinkie, Dayton, past Ohio department commander of the United Spanish American War Veterans and Chas. J. Heinz, Dayton, also a past department commander.

Secretaries of each company submitted reports. Musical entertainment for the meeting was furnished by the Home Cadet Band and the girls' octette. Following the meeting the guests witnessed a battalion dress parade. The place and time of the next meeting are left to the discretion of the new president.

tate us into action, but we must recognize the fact that we cannot make our whole diet of red pepper. People come to me talking about self expression, but I do object to some of the selves that are expressed.

"Some of our present day leaders who seek self expression remind me of small boys, who when a parade forms, are blocks ahead of the band, but who always look back to see which way the band is going. Others are like the collie dog who barks at the train as it rushes by. That these people get a certain self-satisfaction in this activity must be true, but it is also true that their activity makes no imprint on the civilization of their time."

Most leaders, Dr. Matthews declared, displayed an immense amount of enthusiasm for a cause which has not yet been initiated. Once the cause has begun, however, and they find themselves in the midst of it the enthusiasm dies.

In tribute to the founders of Wilberforce, who seventy-five years ago began their work for Negro education, the Chicago theologian pointed out: "The founders of Wilberforce were men who were able to administer a cause once they had gotten in the midst of this. To do such a thing required courage, and this, these men possessed in large degree. It is easier to be a prophet denouncing than to be an apostle organizing."

As a closing word to the graduates, the speaker counseled: "The world is in need of young people who believe that things can be done. It is in need of people who feel that brotherhood is an expression of the cosmic relation rather than a vague sentimentality. We make the world safe for democracy and then have to look around to try to find a democrat who is safe for the world." That the philosophy of futility and frustration seems to be a popular one with the intelligentsia was the belief expressed by the speaker but his message of hope to those who now go out into the world, was that there is always hope and room for the person who is "steadfast and immovable in the Lord Jesus Christ."

The special musical program included Stainer's "God So Loved the World" and Hatcher's, "Yet, I Will Rejoice," by the University Chorus and a soprano solo, "I Will Extol Thee," by Miss Claudia Stevenson. Miss Grace Edwards, organist, played as the processional, Wagner's Grand March from "Tannhauser" and as the postlude Verdi's March of the War Priest from "Aida."

In the afternoon a concert by the university band under direction of Prof. Howard Daniel was given. Both the morning and afternoon exercises were broadcast over the campus by powerful amplifiers installed for the occasion, making it possible for the crowd, which in the morning overflowed Jones' Auditorium, to hear all of the services.

An address by Dr. O. H. Sweet, Detroit, Mich., followed the band concert in the afternoon and in the evening the Rev. J. A. Allen, Dayton, president of the Connectional Council of Churches gave the annual address to the students of Payne Theological Seminary. The session was in charge of the Rev. George Woodson, dean of the seminary.

Bishop John Gregg of Kansas City, Kan., former president of Wilberforce, now in charge of the fifth episcopal district, ordained P. O. Bryant of the New York Conference; Walter Stewart of the Arkansas Conference and George Matthews of the Delaware Conference as deacons. Bishop Gregg was assisted in the ordination ceremony by Bishop J. H. Jones, Dean George F. Woodson, and the Revs. H. H. Summers, L. C. Fisher, L. C. Ridley and other visiting ministers. An organ recital in charge of Miss Alberta Goens and students of the music department will be given Monday evening at 6 o'clock and at 8 o'clock a historical pageant of the university will be presented by fraternities and societies of the school. The exercises mark the celebration of the sixtieth anniversary of the founding of the school.

STIMSON, MELLON VISIT EXPECTED TO PROVE SIGNIFICANT

tained the official silence. Questioned as to the conversations that took place yesterday while he was a guest at Chequers, Shaw refused to comment.

"I can't speak of what happened at Mr. MacDonald's home," he replied.

Asked whether he had a solution of his own to meet the crisis, Shaw, who generally has at least some caustic comment to make on most subjects, turned from his interviewers.

"Absolutely none whatever," he emphasized.

While the Germans went to England primarily to discuss their own situation, the British leaders used the occasion to broach their own troubled condition as a result of the world depression.

The joint communique issued by the conferees was devoted entirely to the discussions of finances, although it was known that some of the talk centered on disarmament.

The first results of the two-day conferences were expected here today to be evidenced by a move to obtain an international loan for Germany in order to lead her out of her present financial slough. Such a loan was granted Austria in 1922. As it is understood that the British warned their German guests not to seal a customs union with Austria, observers here saw another move to hasten a European accord.

Therall White of Bryant Motor Sales, local Ford dealer, announced Monday that the twenty-millionth Ford car, which left Dearborn April 14 on a nation-wide tour, will arrive in Xenia Thursday, June 11.

This car, which was assembled in the presence of Henry and Edsel Ford, will make an over-night stop at the show room of Bryant Motor Sales. Mr. White is arranging for suitable ceremonies to mark the visit.

XENIAN TO RECEIVE HONORARY DEGREE

Mrs. John P. White, 214 E. Second St., this city, will receive the honorary degree of Litt. D. at the seventy-fifth commencement of Monmouth College, Monmouth, Ill., Thursday, according to word received by the Rev. James P. Lytle, pastor of the First U. P. Church here, and chairman of the permanent committee of the senate of the college. Mrs. White is editor of "The Women's Missionary Magazine" of the United Presbyterian Church. Mrs. White will be present to receive the award and to attend graduation exercises of her daughter, Miss Ruth White.

Mrs. White's degree will be the only special degree awarded at the Diamond Jubilee commencement. The degree of Doctor of Divinity will be awarded the Rev. Lee E. Rife, Philadelphia, who is well known in this vicinity, and to the Rev. H. Ross Hume, Cannonsburg, Pa., a son of the late Dr. R. H. Hume, Springfield.

when an automobile driven by a 19-year-old girl was struck and demolished by a Cincinnati and Lake Erie interurban car.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Repasz and their son, Donald, 4, were instantly killed. Their daughter, Dorothy, who was at the wheel, suffered a broken arm and leg, and two sons, Richard, 6, and Robert, 12, were seriously cut and bruised.

Struck by an automobile while walking across the street Anderson Copeland, 68, died of injuries at Mansfield.

While Rex James, 22, of Braden, was driving along the highway near his home, his car collided with one driven by Ross Emilbiser, 37, of Rising Sun, and he was instantly killed.

Mrs. Nellie Pratt, 72, probably received a fractured skull when her automobile overturned at Dayton.

Mrs. Katherine Wroe, 43, of Indianapolis, was seriously injured in another accident on the National highway ten miles northeast of Dayton.

Nineteen persons were injured, several seriously, and four drivers were arrested, in Columbus accidents.

BAPTIZE CHILDREN AT CHURCH SUNDAY

Twenty-five children were baptized and forty-eight new members were received into the church at services in connection with the observance of Children's Day at the First M. E. Church Sunday morning.

Mrs. Orpha Hull directed a program by the Junior and Intermediate choirs and among special features was music by a quartet of children of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Haines and a trio of children of Mr. and Mrs. Coleman D. Pattie. The offertory solo was sung by Harold Miller. Miss Theda Downing was organist and Roy Siefert, pianist, for the services.

stand between you and trouble!

Good? Of course they're good. If they weren't — well, ship them all off to Greenland and see what would happen back home. Yes, these big boys are long on courage — and resourcefulness, too. Give them a "hand," everybody! They're always ready to lend you one.

It's what's "under the jacket" that counts—

Shiny silver buttons don't make a good officer. Or glittering promises a good cigarette.

Under CHESTERFIELD'S white jacket of pure French cigarette paper is a milder, better-tasting smoke—and it's what's "under the jacket" that counts.

CHESTERFIELDS are milder—smoke as many as you like. CHESTERFIELDS taste better—you know that the minute you light up!

More men and women are changing every day from other cigarettes to CHESTERFIELDS.
